Real Money in France.
Brave Swedish Flier.
Tuning Up at Houston.
Kahn Saw It Coming.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

THE French settle down courageously to the drastic new money rate. Four-fifths of its value is cut from their money as a result of a war WHICH THEY WON. They face that situation bravely.

IN place of paper money, meaning little to peasants and working people, the French again will see gold and silver coins in circulation. The grosse piece, size and weight of our silver dollar, will not come back. Worth five francs before the war, it would be worth twenty-five francs now. But ten-franc silver pieces worth forty cents will be coined, and the French will feel that they are working for REAL MONEY.

STABILIZING the franc is a boon to all Europe, ending financial disorder that has lasted ten years.

It is a great achievement by Poincare, worthy successor of Thiers, Turgot, Necer, Sully, and a long list of brilliant French statesmen.

AN ITALIAN message chooses the right words "valorous pilot," for the Swedish aviator, Lieut. Einar Lundborgh. He landed his plane on the ice floe where Gen. Nobile was stranded, took that brave officer to safety, went back to the rescue and was himself stranded in Nobile's place by the overturning of his plane.

SOME cacophony in Houston's preliminary orchestra tuning. But harmony will come. Gov. Smith sends word that he hasn't changed his mind on prohibition. The people like a man to stay put.

SENATOR REED of Missouri, in a strong statement, says he opposed the prohibition amendment, and the Volstead act, as President Wilson did, as "an invasion of the police powers of the state."

But with prohibition in the Constitution and on the statute books, Senator Reed would enforce the law. So would any other good citizen.

OTTO H. KAHN says foolish excesses of inexperienced stock gamblers are over. They have learned a useful lesson and national values will proceed to establish themselves on a sound basis, and, says Mr. Kahn, "optimistic conclusions based solely on the progress of America are sound."

WITH Mr. Kahn it is not "prophesying after the event." Before that recent unpleasant break Mr. Kahn advised friends that trouble was coming.

MR. BLOOM, specialist in sports wear, has his hands and fingers insured for amounts totaling $500,000. Loss of his right hand would cost the insurance company $375,000.

IF that's the value of Mr. Bloom's hand, what would be the value of Michael Angelo's right hand that painted the Sistine Chapel, modeled the Pieta, hewed David and Moses out of solid marble and made the plans of Saint Peter's?

SENATOR MOSES and Mrs. Willebrandt say Hoover will be elected overwhelmingly by the votes of women. "For every deluded wet Republican who votes for Smith there will be two dry Democratic women who will jump over the fence for Hoover," says Senator Moses.

PLENTY of women will vote for Hoover, but don't overlook the fact that millions of women will vote for Gov. Smith and with him nominated, wouldn't vote for anybody else, not even the Angel Gabriel. Women will have a great deal to do in deciding this campaign. And it won't be one-sided.

FLOUR manufacturers, including Washburn-Crosby and Red Star, organized a $50,000,000 combination, largest flour milling concern in the world.

That's in the line of modern methods, big units, small overhead, powerful marketing.

This news will interest farmers and make them wish somebody could show them how to organize. The first thing, and absolutely necessary, is to organize and intensify methods of production. An old-fashioned blacksmith could not compete with a modern automobile factory.

M'GOVERN CRITICISM JOLTED

Citizens of Allegheny county at a special bond issue election today are voting on the question of increasing the county's indebtedness $43,680,000. The polls opened at 8 a. m., daylight saving time, and reports from many districts indicate that a large vote will be cast. The polls close at 8 p. m., daylight saving time.

All voters are qualified to cast their ballots today on the county bond issue if, living in the cities, they were eligible to vote at the primary and general elections of 1927 and the primary election of 1928, and have not moved from their districts; and in the boroughs and townships, if their names are on the polling lists. Electors in boroughs and townships whose names are not on the lists may vote by making affidavit they have lived in the districts two months, with a qualified elector as a witness.

Coincident with the balloting comes a bond issue statement by Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong, of the board of County Commissioners, answering criticisms by Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and

GIRL SOBS MURDER DENIAL

From a witness box in Criminal Court today a boy and a girl who were engaged to marry denied the murder of which both are accused!

Mike Popowich testified that his fiancee, Olga Pawlishak, beautiful Russian girl of Fair Oaks, had shot Nick Anderson, 38, of Ambridge, in her home.

Olga said she didn't shoot him!

And sobbed as she spoke!

Tears streamed down Olga's young face as she testified that Mike had asked her to take the blame for the murder. "He said a jury wouldn't do anything to a young girl," Olga sobbed in explanation of her earlier statement that she had pulled the trigger.

Olga's denial was strengthened by the testimony of Dr. C. R. Bonzo, Patrolman Andrew Bears, of Ambridge, and Miss Marie McCormick, supervisor of Sewickley Valley Hospital, who testified that Anderson, on his death-bed, had named Popowich as the murderer.

The boy and girl agreed on one detail of the murder, that Nick Anderson had come to the Pawlishak home and asked for Olga's

Dunbar, Banker, Dies

Alexander Dunbar, vice president of the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., died suddenly at 7:30 o'clock this morning, following an operation in Homeopathic Hospital.

The operation was for appendicitis and occurred last Thursday. He was apparently recovering until Sunday, when he had a relapse.

Mr. Dunbar, for years a leader in financial circles, was born in Steubenville, O., 53 years ago, and began his career there, entering the National Exchange Bank in June, 1893. To acquire greater experience in systematic accounting of a large corporation, he obtained a position with the Carnegie Steel Company in 1901, serving in the cost department. In 1903, with A.

One Killed In Italia Crash

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 26.—(AP.)—With two injured men of the crew of the Italia rescued from their perilous position on an ice floe by airplanes, preparations went forward today to search for seven men who drifted to the east in the balloon part of the dirigible.

At least one of the seven is believed to have been killed in falling from a forward compartment.

This was Vincenzo Pomella, motor attendant. Latest advices indicate that he was undoubtedly killed in the fall. The fate of his six companions in the bag, which

These are the fruits of raids executed by police on two lottery headquarters, 1320 Wylie avenue and 2341 Wylie avenue, which were said to include many school children of the Hill district among their customers. Detective Tom Gross (right) is exhibiting a bag containing $590, seized with thousands of tickets at 1320 Wylie avenue, and Patrolman F. L. Lewis is handling with care a box of dice which have decided the fates of many men. In Center Avenue Police Court, Magistrate Verona reserved decision on two proprietors and eight agents, all Negroes, after they had confessed their parts. Lottery winners, they testified, were decided by the last three numbers of the New York clearing house figures.

The Democratic chieftains who decided on night sessions for the national convention already are hearing from evening newspapers back home, but they place all of the blame on the evolution of the radio.

By holding short sessions in midday, when many of the nation's millions are at home for noon luncheons they assert that they will reach the voters over the broadcasting chain, and then again, with night sessions they believe literally millions will listen to the lambasting of the Republican party.

These leaders are depending on the newspapers to carry the all-important printed word, but they are overlooking no bets in getting their case across. Unless there is a change in plans there will be several night sessions of the convention, although no day will be altogether neglected.

BOTH KANSAS CITY AND HOUSTON HAVE TURNED UP PROSPECTIVE BIG TIME SALESMEN IN THEIR NEWSBOYS. WHILE A FIRE WAS BEING ATTENDED TO IN ONE OF THE BIG HOTELS IN THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION CITY, AND EVEN BEFORE THE ENGINES HAD ARRIVED, A NEWSIE STARTED YELLING:

THIS ONLY GOT A LAUGH FROM THE WISE ONES AT THE SCENE, BUT THE KID ON THE CORNER OF THE RICE HOTEL IN HOUSTON LAST NIGHT HAD BETTER LUCK WHEN HE STARTED THE CRY:

"SENATOR HEFLIN TURNS TO AL SMITH."

HE SOON SOLD OUT.

CONVENTION ON; SMITH RULES

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

SAM HOUSTON HALL, HOUSTON, Tex., June 26.—The rumble of a Smith band wagon bearing the legend "Smith-and-Robinson" was heard in the offing today as the thousand-odd delegates to the Democratic National Convention sweltered their way into this huge mountain of pine and bunting at Houston, erected for them almost overnight.

Of the Smith part of the ticket, no one had any doubt whatsoever—not even the bitterest last-ditcher from the forks of some Southern creek.

LOOKS LIKE 1ST BALLOT

The movement to nominate the New York Governor on the first ballot was growing as the delegates assembled for the first session. A careful figure analysis showed that barring last-minute upsets he will have more than 700 votes on the initial ballot, with several of the favorite sons teetering on the fence over the question of withdrawing early and letting it go with a whoop on the first roll call.

As for the Robinson part of the ticket, the movement undeniably was growing by leaps and bounds this morning to name the Arkansas Senator early in the proceedings.

The Tammany people were for him, his senatorial colleagues scattered through a dozen delegations were boosting him, and within the next three days there probably will be enough votes lined up to insure his nomination.

The cry was everywhere to make this convention "short and snappy"—no Madison Square Garden. The heat, of which Houston has plenty, contributed to the desire to wind things up as quickly as possible. The principal barrier seemed to be the prohibition plank in the platform, but here again was the impatient desire on the part of leaders to avoid any lengthy argument. A short and snappy fight and a strong law enforcement plank that will be acceptable to the wets and still will mollify the drys was the goal.

All Houston was en fete and on tip-toe for this show.

BIG WHOOPEE!

Downtown streets resounded to the music of marching bands beginning as early as 9 o'clock. Most of Texas came to Houston to sit in on the first national convention that this section of the country ever saw. Cowboys, oil men, ranchers, cotton men, fruit growers—every-

How 1st Ballot Shapes Up

HOUSTON, Tex., June 26.—(INS.)—Conferences and caucuses among the various delegations comprising the Democratic National Convention indicated today, as the convention opened, that the first ballot on the Presidency will be approximately as follows:

(Necessary to nominate, 734.)

From this table it will be seen that the withdrawal of any of the favorite sons such as Pomerene, Woollen or Ayres, with the consequent release of their delegates, would probably result in a first ballot nomination for Gov. Smith.

EX-GOVERNOR REVEALED ON POWER PAYROLL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The Federal Trade Commission's searchlight was directed upon activities of the so-called power trust in Arkansas today.

The public utilities in that state exerted their chief influence toward development of industries, aimed at the greater consumption of power, according to the testimony of Rex H. Brown, secretary of the Arkansas information bureau.

Brown testified that while Charles H. Brough, former governor of Arkansas, was chief of the bureau, he did not actively manage it. Brough, who gets $6,000 annually from the bureau, makes about 200 speeches a year, principally on industrial development subjects, according to Brown.

It was disclosed that the bureau rendered financial assistance to an Arkansas trade paper whose editor asked for help, saying that his publication "was about to go on the rocks."

Brown said the bureau subscribed to 300 copies of the paper and later made some "loans and advances." He explained that the publication would soon become the official organ of the Arkansas Chamber of Commerce and that the "loans and advances" would be deducted from the bureau's contribution to that business organization.

Brown declared, however, that the bureau had made no effort to influence the editorial or news policy of the Journal. Its attitude had been unfavorable toward municipal ownership.

Although Brown said that he "did not consider that there was any publicity problem in Arkansas," he testified that his bureau had circulated printed matter opposing government operation of Muscle Shoals and the building of Boulder Dam. The latter was opposed, Brown explained, because it would develop cotton areas, through irrigation, which would compete with those of the South.

was swept away from the Nobile group on the ice, is unknown.

(Hitherto there have been no reports stating definitely that any of the crew of the Italia were killed. The seven men who were carried away in the gas bag have not been heard from and confirmation as to Pomella's death is unobtainable.)

TO TRY PARACHUTE

An attempt to drop by parachute from an airplane upon the ice floe, on which four members of the Nobile party are marooned near Foyn Island, Spitzbergen, was in prospect today.

Messages from Spitzbergen said that a Swedish mechanic desired to make the descent in order to help Lieut. Lundborg, who was marooned with the Nobile party when his plane overturned in rescue work. The mechanic believed that he could help Lundborg in repairing the machine and thus aid in getting the others off the ice.

Pilots of two large Italian seaplanes and a Swedish seaplane were summoned to meet aboard the base ship Citta di Milano at Virgo Bay to perfect searching plans. They will be guided by the advice of Gen. Umberto Nobile, who was injured in the Italia crash. Nobile, although prevented from flying in search of his comrades, was aiding in plans for their rescue by his knowledge of ice conditions and observations made by him on the voyage of the Italia to Lenin Land of the area toward which the balloon drifted.

Natale Cecconi, motor chief of the Italia, was picked up by an airplane and brought to safety. His broken leg was receiving medical attention today.

body was here for what the Texans call "some whoopee."

Sam Houston's Hall holds 16,000 and covers seemingly a half mile of space. Across the street was what Houston calls its "hospitality house," a covered city block of benches, ice water and electric fans.

This was for the thousands who were unable to buy, beg or steal a ticket into the main tent.

Amplifiers carried the burning words from the platform to those outside. Not even the drab character of the opening session could keep 'em from flocking out to see the show.

There wasn't much planned for the initial session—not even the usual keynote. With a keen eye to the millions who might listen to this tonight over the radio, the convention planners decided to postpone that until 7 p. m.

The first session concerned itself only with perfecting the temporary organization and the usual routine duties of appointing committees, etc.

IS IT WARM!

Realizing the drabness of the take off, the delegates took their time about getting to the convention hall. A room on one of the top floors of the Rice Hotel equipped with electric fans and other cooling devices seemed more attractive than this great barn-like structure that lay sprawling under a merciless Texas sun.

Clem Shaver's open invitation to make this a "coatless convention" was accepted alacrity by the perspiring delegates. A few Spartans, probably from the effete East, clung to their coats, but the scene from the platform presented an acre of shirt-sleeved men and fanning women whose clothes stuck damply to their backs. Withal, it wasn't any hotter than it was at Madison Square Garden four years ago. The ventilation was on all sides and that helped.

North Carolina and Tennessee drew the prize seat locations on the floor, being directly in front of the speaker's platform, and emphasizing that this was a Democratic not a Republican convention.

The floor arrangements rather indicated that these Texans were prepared for anything. Each state standard was embedded in heavy blocks of concrete a foot square and weighing something short of a ton.

KANSAS FOR AYRES

The Kansas delegation caucused just before the convention opened and decided to cast its 20 votes for Kansas' favorite son, Representative William A. Ayres, on the first ballot "and as long thereafter as a majority of the delegates desire."

The convention was called to order at 12:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. Pittsburgh time.)

Familiar figures of the Wilson administration, Ex-Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, Joseph P. Tumulty, Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Jouett Shouse of Kansas, Ray T. Baker and others were busy on the floor, reviewing old acquaintances and exchanging greetings. Everybody appeared in a good humor.

UNDERWORLD SUPPLIES $500,000 THEFT CLUE

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—An attempt to link the $500,000 Leviathan mail robbery and the murder of Edwin J. Jerge, alias Edward Carter, underworld character, was being made today by police and postal inspectors.

Jerge was shot to death June 17 as he sat with an unidentified woman in an automobile on crowded Broadway waiting for traffic lights to change. He was said to have specialized in mail thefts. His slaying occurred the day after the the Leviathan sailed from New York with the mail cargo, which was found to have been looted on reaching England.

Authorities are working on the theory that Jerge was slain because he "knew too much," about the robbery or, possibly, after a quarrel over division of the loot.

"It is the first good clue we have had to work on," asserted C. H. Clarahan, chief postoffice department inspector, who explained that information coming to him from the underworld reported this connection.

mother, whom he was accused of courting.

"He started walking towards me," Olga testified. "He put his hands out just like claws. He said, 'I'll kill you' . . . Mike said, 'Oh no, you won't.' Then he went towards Mike. I heard a shot fired. I fainted. I don't know what happened after that."

But Olga's sweetheart told a different story. Preceding Olga to the stand, he testified, "Nick swore at Olga and then she fired a shot to scare him. Nick approached me and she shot him."

On cross-examination Popowich identified the gun from which the fatal shot was fired, as his. He said, too, that he and Olga had been engaged to marry.

The second woman on trial at the same time for murder, Mrs. Rose Bartolette, 35, of 538 Becks Run road, heard Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk ask a jury for a verdict of first degree murder. Mrs. Bartolette, Clunk said he would show, shot her common-law husband, Simone Lagattuta, 39, when she learned he had shared his attentions with Pauline Costanza, 18, whom he married on his death bed.

Mrs. Bartolette, testifying today in her own defense, declared that she and Lagattuta quarreled when she asked him to give up bootlegging and that he attacked her with a broom. In the scuffle he drew a revolver and it was discharged a number of times in fighting for it, she said, without indicating by whom or how the shots were fired.

JUNE LOOMS AS RAINIEST MONTH

"What is so rare as a rainless day in June?"

A new version of the familiar line discloses how Pittsburgh records for heavy June rainfall are collapsing. Consider. The month is 26 days old. Rain has fallen on 18 days. The total rainfall is 6.59 inches, against the regular June average of 3.68 inches. On 15 days heavy downpours occurred. On only eight days no rain fell, but even these days were cloudy and threatening.

According to Forecaster W. S. Brotman, rain is likely to occur tomorrow and on succeeding days, making it probable that the record for a rainy June, established in 1881 with 6.95 inches, will be broken.

Missing Gambling Witness Appears

GARDNER TO PROBE CHARGES MADE

John Meyer, North Side saloonkeeper, whose testimony in Morals Court recently bared existence of a gambling ring linked with liquor selling concessions on the North Side, today appeared at the office of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner and made what the prosecutor termed a "satisfactory statement."

Meyer, a witness before the federal grand jury's rum conspiracy probe, vanished several days ago and had been sought by county detectives. Today he told District Attorney Gardner he had been out of the city for a visit and had not known he was wanted.

"Meyer called on me this morning and said he understood I wanted to have a talk with him," said Gardner. "He answered my questions in a satisfactory manner. County detectives will investigate the information he gave me and which has a bearing on the general investigation of alleged gambling in Allegheny county to follow the furnishing of evidence adduced in the federal grand jury's probe by the United States district attorney."

Meyer's revelations in Morals Court came after he had been haled into court by Mrs. Della Schmocher, of 1 Fountain street, who testified her husband could not make the payments for support of their child, as required by Desertion Court, because he lost all of his earnings in gambling devices in Meyer's saloon and other places. Meyer named Alfred W. Forney, in his testimony, as head of the North Side slot machine ring.

Magistrate Brandon held Meyer and John White, bartender in Meyer's saloon, 608 East Ohio street, for court on charges of violating the Snyder act and maintaining gambling devices.

He makes the Republicans pretty near as bad as they are. That's how good he is.

SUN-TELE VOTING MACHINES KEPT BUSY

Pittsburgh's first machine-gathered straw vote, being conducted by The Sun-Telegraph, showed unusual response yesterday.

Five machines were in operation and hundreds crowded about them to register their preference between Hoover and Smith for president. Today a sixth machine went into action in the Pennsylvania Station.

In the Sun-Tele want ad offices at Fifth avenue and Market street a heavy vote was cast as prospective voters jammed the office while others crowded about the windows. In the Jenkins Arcade a continuous crowd kept the machine busy. At the William Penn, Fort Pitt and Roosevelt Hotels, liberal ballotting continued all day.

FAVORABLE COMMENT HEARD

More than 1,000 persons, coached by the assistants in charge of the machines, swung the lever and indicated their preference for president, performing the entire act of voting and registering their vote by themselves. It is a swift, sure and simple procedure, and one which elicited favorable comment from most of the voters.

Business men, shop girls, clerks and society matrons approached the machines willingly and unhesitatingly, casting a vote for their favorite with evident relish.

The Sun-Telegraph plans to maintain these voting machines throughout the city and environs, to give every person in the city an opportunity to express himself on the vital question and to get an honest expression of presidential preference.

BEAUTY ARRIVES, HIDES CURLS

Clothes may or may not make the man! Even bathing suits may have something to do with making beauties, but there is no doubt that curls make the girl—make her charming, at least!

And perhaps that is why Dorothy Britton, chosen the most beautiful in the universe at Galveston last year, walked out of the Pennsylvania Station unrecognized this morning. She had hidden her curls and looked much the same as many of the other charming young women on their way to work.

Pretty Dorothy Britton put up her curls and assumed the role of a very, very sophisticated traveler this morning because she was making her first trip ALONE.

Absolutely—(take Dorothy's word for it) this is the first time she has ever traveled any distance away from home without her mother. She will be here for two more days, as the leading lady in a bathing beauty pageant at Gimbel Brothers tomorrow and Thursday.

RETAIL RESEARCH PUBLICITY MEN MEET

Publicity directors of the Retail Research Association, an organization of department stores in the United States and Great Britain, are holding their semi-annual meeting in Pittsburgh this week in the training department of the Joseph Horne Company, the Pittsburgh member. The objects of the association are of a research character. Improved advertising methods are being discussed. The stores comprising the association spend approximately $20,000,000 annually for advertising, over 75 per cent of which goes in newspapers, indicating the high regard in which the daily press is held as an advertising medium.

HALL BAIL BOND MUST STAND

Judge Ambrose B. Reid, of Common Pleas Court, refused to dismiss the bail bond of Louis Dixon Hall, insurance agent, with offices in the Columbia Bank Building, wanted in Virginia for deserting his wife. It developed at the hearing that the extradition papers had not yet arrived, but Judge Reid consented only to an indefinite postponement of the hearing. Hall, who lives at Webster Hall, according to report, formerly was an instructor of agriculture in the University of Illinois, and also is said to have served seven years under Secretary of Agriculture Houston. Hall was arrested by Detective John T. McCullough recently on complaint of the commonwealth attorney of Arlington county, Virginia, who wired that Hall had left his wife in destitute circumstances.

SUN-TELE'S POLL

Within a few minutes after the installation of one of the voting machines used in the Sun-Telegraph's presidential poll, more than 100 Pittsburghers had registered their sentiments at Jenkins Arcade (above). Other machines have been placed in William Penn, Fort Pitt and Roosevelt hotels and Pennsylvania Station. The question Pittsburgh is answering for this newspaper is "Do you prefer Hoover or Smith for the presidency?"

Pittsburgh AS OTHERS SEE US

"It is not in the field of commerce and education alone that Pittsburgh is known in Shanghai, for riding at anchor here is the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, flagship of the Asiatic Squadron, . . . with its graceful lines in the brilliant sunshine, seen by thousands daily."

—EDWIN S. CUNNINGHAM.

EDWIN S. CUNNINGHAM

EDWIN S. CUNNINGHAM, American consul at Shanghai, China, born in Sevier county, Tenn., July 6, 1868. Educated at Maryville College and University of Michigan. American consul at Aden, Arabia, 1898-1901, and filled several other important posts in the consular service. Member of the Court of Consuls. Resides in the American Consulate General, Shanghi.

In the department stores of this city (Shanghai) and in many of the larger provision shops, well known food products from Pittsburgh are conspicuously displayed. Electrical equipment manufactured in Pittsburgh helps to keep the Shanghai resident cool in summer and warms his home in winter. Pittsburgh-made glass is used by many of the foreign and Chinese shops and business establishments, while steamers from Baltimore and other eastern ports of the United States bring their cargoes of Pittsburgh steel.

Among the American and Chinese residents of the city are a number of graduates of Pittsburgh colleges and technical schools, while many of the American educated Chinese students who have returned received their practical training in the great industrial plants of Pittsburgh. . . .

It is not in the field of commerce and education alone that Pittsburgh is known in Shanghai, for riding at anchor at the United States Naval Buoy in the the Whangpoo River here, the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, flagship of the Asiatic Squadron, is often a prominent feature of the local harbor. Lying in full view of the teeming Shanghai Bund, the Pittsburgh, with its graceful lines, in the brilliant sunshine, is seen by thousands daily.

SMITH LEADER, PENNA. WOMAN DECLARES

By WILLIAM I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HOUSTON, June 26.—While there is a strong dry sentiment in the South, the Democrats below the Mason and Dixon line are more anxious to obtain a capable candidate than to back an aspirant because he agrees with them on one issue alone, is the belief of Miss Gertrude Ely, of Bryn Mawr, vice chairman of the Pennsylvania delegation.

"There is no doubt of the strong dry sentiment in the South and the women are especially active in reminding the delegates of what they call their Christian duty to demand a prohibition candidate and a dry plank," said Miss Ely, who served in the Y. M. C. A. canteens in France and who is active in the League of Women Voters. "I meet many men and women of Houston, however, who agree with me that a wise, able and honest president is what the party and country need more than they need a one-issue man."

WANTS STRONG PLATFORM

Miss Ely, supporting the candidacy of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, expressed the hope that the Democratic platform will have more teeth than that adopted by the Republican convention in Kansas City. Other members of the Pennsylvania delegation have expressed the same hope, especially those who would like to see Gov. Smith run for President on a platform calling for modification of the Volstead act.

This hope seems doomed to failure today as the Pennsylvania delegation and the groups from other states, headed by bands, march toward the huge temporary convention hall, which resembles nothing so much as a glorified Billy Sunday tabernacle, except that it is more tastily decorated and better built. Judging from the opinions expressed by leaders of all factions, the platform is likely to be composed for the most part of rather general and vague planks, with the exception of those sections denouncing the corruption scandals brought to light by Senators James A. Reed and Thomas Walsh. It is a striking thing, too, that the two men who possibly have done the most to provide the party with its issues this year—Reed and Walsh—are not the dominating figures here. Reed is fighting a last-ditch battle to stem the tide of Smith sentiment with the knowledge that, even should he block Smith, he himself probably will go down in the wreckage, while Walsh has subordinated his candidacy to that of the New York governor.

GUFFEY UNOPPOSED

Not a word concerning the platform was uttered at the caucus of the Pennsylvania delegation. Nor was there even a ripple of opposition from John A. McSparran or the other anti-Smith delegates and the majority group headed by Joseph F. Guffey put across its slate of candidates. The meeting of the delegation was in striking contrast to the riotous gathering of the State Committee in Harrisburg a few weeks ago.

Thomas F. Farrell of Wilkes-Barre was named chairman of the delegation and David L. Lawrence secretary. Miss Ely was elected vice chairman and Mrs. Anna Ewing Cort of Greensburg, assistant secretary. The following were named to convention committees: Judge John H. McCann, Ebensburg, credentials; Col. S. E. Walker, Warren, resolutions; Robert A. Henderson, Altoona, rules and order of business, and Mrs. Lilly H. Bergey, Philadelphia permanent organization.

National Committeeman Joseph F. Guffey, Pittsburgh, was selected the state's representative on the committee to notify the presidential nominee, and Leon M. Levy, Scranton, on the like committee to notify the vice presidential candidate. All the elections were unanimous.

CONGRATULATIONS SENT

By unanimous vote the chairman was instructed to send a letter of greeting to Col. James M. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, 89 years of age, veteran party leader and former member of the national committee. Another letter of greeting was sent to former United States Marshall John F. Short, of Clearfield, who, it was said, has attended every Democratic convention since he was 17, but who was compelled to miss this one because of a slight illness. A message of condolence was sent to the family of former State Treasurer William H. Berry, who died recently. A telegram of greeting was sent to former Congressman Warren Worth Bailey, of Johnstown.

"Too much harmony," commented one of the delegates after the love-feast. "We might as well be Republicans."

OIL CITY MEN HAVE BAD DAY IN COURT

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 26.—Three Oil City men drew stiff sentences in Judge William Parker's court yesterday. A. D. Barrett, worthless check passer, was given five months in jail. Peter J. Gidders and A. H. Brown were fined and drew terms, respectively, of 14 and 20 months in Allegheny county workhouse on liquor charges. Freeman Ashbaugh, automobile thief, of Franklin, was sent to Morganza.

CAROL'S FORMER WIFE IS NOT TO REMARRY

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 26.—(AP.)—An official denial that Princess Helen, mother of King Michael, and divorced wife of Prince Carol, intends to remarry has been issued. The denial states that all names connected with her's are absolute inventions.

CHURCH FIGHT STAGED IN COURT

A fight between two factions of the St. John's Greek Catholic Church, of East Pittsburgh, one of which seeks the appointment of a receiver, is being staged before Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas court.

Clarence Stoner, East Pittsburgh tax collector, called as a witness in the case testified that although the church owns private property with an income sufficient to pay the church's operating expenses, its 1927 taxes have not been paid and he intends to file liens against it.

The controversy is said to have started over a move to attach the church to the Roman Catholic diocese.

Foot Tortures Vanished Overnight

Says Officer T. C. Stoehr

Read What This Popular Pittsburgh Traffic Policeman Writes:

"FOR years I have been having all kinds of trouble with my feet. Being on the police force I, of course, am standing up all day long on hard pavements. When I would get home at night my feet would be aching and burning, and I was troubled with soreness due to callouses. My first trial of Coolene proved what a wonderful thing it is. I put some on when I came home from work and my feet felt brand new at once. The burning and aching left immediately. I used it again the next morning, and I could not believe it—my feet felt so fine all day. Now I am never troubled with foot ailments—thanks to Coolene."

Policemen everywhere, and others who are on their feet all day, say the same thing. Officer P. A. McLaughlin, pictured above, who suffered foot pains for years says, "Coolene ended the burning and aching of my feet at once."

Wonderful Cream Ends Burning Feet

Now you, too, can enjoy instant relief from tired, aching, burning feet. Coolene, a marvelous new, ivory-white soothing cream, contains rare oils and frankincense and myrrh—used by the ancients for centuries to heal foot tortures caused by hot desert sands.

It penetrates at once to the inflamed nerves—soothes and cools them—relieves congestion in the tiny veins—instantly all foot miseries vanish and your aching feet feel like new.

Coolene is greaseless, vanishes instantly, cannot stain. Satisfaction guaranteed, or small cost refunded. Sold and recommended by good drug and dept. stores everywhere, such as: May's Drug Stores.

Volstead Not On the Job At Houston

HOUSTON, June 26.—There is a lot of talk about the "dry" plank, but prohibition does not seem to worry anyone here. Corn whisky—which seems to be a native drink—sells for as cheap as $3 a quart. A dozen brands of imported Scotch sell at $8 a quart and the same price is asked for Canadian whisky that has not been tampered with. Wines and cordials are plentiful, the best imported champagne going for $10 a bottle. There is home brew, which is terrible, but there also is some beer that is better than Pittsburgh has had in many moons.

400 HOURS DANCE GOAL

2 MARATHONS HERE NEAR N.Y. MARK

Three Negro couples in the Motor Square dancing contest had put 373 hours of continuous dancing behind them at 2 o'clock this afternoon, a new local record and closely on the heels of the record of the New York bunion derby. They danced on toward a 400-hour goal.

They were guarded by extra police, the promoters of the international bunion derby having been threatened with harm in an anonymous letter last night if one of the couples does not drop out by midnight.

In Duquesne Garden, 10 couples had danced 306 hours at 2 o'clock this afternoon and all appeared as though they were good for another 100 hours.

The Motor Square Garden contestants last night celebrated the fourth wedding anniversary of two of the contestants. Clara and Rufus Mc[illegible]w, of Winslow street, danced out their string while eating ice cream and cake, the other two contesting couples joining in the celebration.

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 26.—Seven couples and two unattached male dancers had put 203 hours of dancing behind them at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the local marathon dance. The two unattached males were waiting for two men to drop out of the dance that they might pick partners again.

CHARLEROI, Pa., June 26.—Eleven of the 32 couples who yesterday morning began the Charleroi Firemen's dance marathon were carrying on today. Several couples had been disqualified because of physical unfitness and others dropped out.

DONORA, Pa., June 26.—Fifteen couples were still contesting in the Donora marathon at 2 o'clock this afternoon, 37 hours after the start. One couple dropped out during the first day.

NEW YORK, June 26.—With nerves, brains and muscles seemingly deadened to insensible mechanisms, nine couples moved about the floor of Madison Square Garden today, passing the three hundred and seventy-fifth hour of the dance marathon.

There was nothing spectacular about this seventeenth day of continued motion. It was simply dull. Not even occasional tussles between partners occurred to relieve the deadly monotony of the scene.

About 200 listless spectators were present in the forenoon to watch the 18 "dopey" contestants.

Melodrama and Comedy Give Nixon Audience Some Thrills And Laughs in "Under Cover"

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"UNDER COVER," Roi Copper Megrue's melodrama of smuggling and secret service operations, with comedy relief in the little whims of high society folk in the matter of drinking and the penchant of women to avoid paying customs duty to their Uncle Samuel, provided exciting and amusing entertainment for a good-sized audience in the Nixon last night. However, it was not the small smuggling of women that formed the central theme of the play, but a much larger operation, bound up in a complicated plot, with a surprise ending.

The play gave all the members of the company good opportunities in roles ranging from the impecunious society girl, pressed into service as a secret service operative as an "under cover" agent in order to protect her sister from arrest, to amateur and professional smugglers and detectives. Katherine Wilson was effective as the drafted detective lady, a part in which she displayed emotional capacity. Harry Bannister was convincingly masterful as a suspected smuggler and Clifford Dunstan made realistic his portrayal of a trembling and fearful society youngster in the game for a thrill.

Howard Freeman gave a good characterization of a secret service man with a bloodhound scent for jewels and Fred Sullivan was a suave and plausible solid business man who resented his wife's limit of one drink a day for him. Kathryn Card helped him to bring out the comedy as the wife whom he could not deceive. Others having parts, and playing them very well, included Joseph Thayer, Norman Porter, Clifford Edge, Josephine Whittell, Ann Carnal, Frank Reyman and Louise Quinn.

SOME OF THE MEN :-: SEEN THIS WEEK :-: IN AMUSEMENTS

Clifford Dunstan is juvenile of the Nixon Players, whose current vehicle is "Under Cover," comedy drama.

Adolphe Menjou has the stellar role in "His Tiger Lady," offered on the screen of the Stanley.

Dick Henderson is the hit of the Davis vaudeville. Mr. Henderson is a comedian from England.

Gordon Anderson, in "The Bride," Pitt. Mr. Anderson is juvenile with the George Sharp Players.

DAVIS WINNER COMEDIAN

Dick Henderson, comedian from England, stands out in the several routine acts that make up the Keith-Albee vaudeville in the Davis. Dick is a surprise and a delight. His buffoonery is infectious low comedy, besides which he has a good singing voice with which he could win favor alone. At the opening show yesterday the audience could not get enough of his brand of fun. "The Blue Slickers," featuring Marie White and Jerry Derr, dancers, and Jack Howe, kazoo performer, also made good in an act of varied specialties, including a banjo duet by Fonce Valentine and Roy Cameron. The songs of Jack Hewitt and Fred Hall pleased. Two acrobatic acts, those of the Dubois Brothers, gymnasts, and the Five Molays, tumblers, gave the program flavor of erenic dexterity. George Kirby and Helen Duval offered comedy in a character skit, "On the Ozark Trail." Florence Vidor had the role of a frivolous French countess in the photoplay feature, "The Magnificent Flirt," light entertainment. Albert Conti played opposite the star and Ned Sparks had a comedy role. News pictures and a film comedy completed the program.

PENN'S KEATON FILM CYCLONE OF MIRTH

Taking motion pictures of a rainstorm, a hurricane and a flood and featuring them in a rough and tumble screen comedy for Buster Keaton causes—why, a "cyclone of mirth," of course. It's called "Steamboat Bill, Jr.," and it's a thriller as well as a laugh-producer, as was attested yesterday by audiences in the Penn, where people gasped and laughed alternately. It certainly must have been something like a real hurricane that was pictured in some of the scenes, and the cameraman was helped out by "stunts" showing automobiles, trees and houses lifted from the ground and swirled through the air and tossed down miles away. Buster gets a laugh out of every raindrop, every blow of the hurricane and every swish of the cyclone. It's good warm weather entertainment. A little one-reeler in colors, a Spanish romance, is another attractive feature. Directing the stage presentation Teddy Joyce has good acts, including Maurice Colleano, an acrobat who does startling feats; Georgia Hays, jazz toe dancer; Wee Willie Robyn, singer; Bobby Gilbert and the Foster girls. Don Albert leads the orchestra and Dick Liebert has a new organ feature.

GOOD MENJOU FILM PLEASES IN STANLEY

There's a fascinating picture in the Stanley. Its title is "His Tiger Lady" and it is called a romance of the Folies Bergere. It is a subtle comedy with a plot that holds intense interest and is superbly acted by Adolphe Menjou and Evelyn Brent. The scenes are laid in Paris and many of the situations are extremely Frenchy, but not offensively so. It is the best entertainment seen on the Stanley screen in many weeks. David Broudy conducts the Stanley Orchestra and has provided a fine program. The acts in the stage presentation move along brisky to the music of the Jazz Beaus and the baton of Ted King, a new master of ceremonies. A dozen of graceful and good looking dancers, billed as Ned Wayburn's "Chicks," do some artful steps, topping off their act with classic toe dancing that stirred yesterday's audiences to vigorous applause. The other acts are up to standard and interesting news pictures forecasting the Democratic national convention are shown.

Mossinson, director of the principal Hebrew school in Tel Aviv, Palestine, will speak. Marcus Rauh will preside and Mrs. Sol Rosenbloom will announce the names of the graduates.

'THE BRIDE' ON PITT STAGE AMUSES

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH.

"The Bride," a sort of comedy-mystery combination, is this week's stock production in the Pitt. It proves an interesting play and is well presented by George Sharp's players.

Anne Forrest has the title role—that of a bride, who enters via the roof, the lodgings of two bachelor brothers. One of the brothers, portrayed by Gus Forbes, is "careful" of women and a student of jelly fish. The other, played by George Baxter, has rubies for a hobby. Neither show much interest in the fair sex—that is, at first.

Here, just a word about Mr. Baxter. He is Mr. Sharp's new leading man. And his premiere in the Pitt proves him capable at his profession.

Early in the action of the play in the library of the brothers their aunt, opera bound, chides them on their dull and respectable existence. She wishes they'd "break" into a first page scandal, get chummy with a blonde, or something.

The aunt, essayed by Alice Ann Baker, makes her exit. James, the butler, brings in their lounging robes and slippers. Then Brother Forbes gets his pipe, Mr. Baxter lights another of the numerous cigarets he turns to ashes in the course of three acts and they both settle down to an evening of literature—about jelly fish and jewelery and crimes.

Suddenly Brother Forbes is aware of .. draft on his neck and a moment later Miss Forrest and her bridal veil, etc., come fluttering down the hallway steps and into the room. She faints, recovers and tells a story about fleeing from bridegroom 10 minutes before the ceremony.

A little later, in Brother Forbes' yellow pajamas and lounging robe, she is seen signaling someone from a window by the alert butlering James. So the air of mystery gets more foggy. Two more acts—acts of witty lines, a boisterous police inspector, hurdy-gurdy music, breakfast for three and love-light in the younger brother's eyes lead to the final curtain and an ending that satisfies.

The cast includes Ray Hurd, instructor in Shady Side Academy, who makes a capable Policeman O'Brien; Edwin Vail, John Moore and Gordon Anderson.

Mabel Kroman, who is not in the cast this week, has written a drama, tentatively titled "It Happened in Pittsburgh," which will be produced by Mr. Sharp's company in about four weeks, so Mr. Vail announced between acts.

FUN PROGRAM IN HARRIS

The show that opened on the Harris vaudeville stage yesterday offers several clever comedians, a capable comedienne and a fellow who might be called "the human pipe organ." This fellow is Roger Williams. He amuses for 10 or so minutes with vocal imitations. One minute he's a "five-piece jazz band," and next "an organ," then a chugging flivver, or "static" on the radio. Walsh and Clark are an entertaining team. The male member gives some funny impersonations and does some neat stepping. Another amusing pair is Crystal and Anderson. The feminine member is quite a comedienne. A revue, "Under the Palms," pleases. It has buffoonery, nonsense, songs and dances. Hill and Quinnell chatter and do some bicycle feats. The photoplay is "Green Grass Widows," a picture of college and golf, with Walter Hagen, golf star, in the cast. News pictures and an organlogue are on the bill.

Beware of Chronic Acid Stomach

Ulcers Likely to Follow Unless Treated Properly

A "gassy" stomach is an acid stomach. And acid, which makes the stomach lining raw and inflamed, is a frequent cause of ulcers.

If your stomach is acid—especially if it is a chronic condition—be most careful of the remedy you use. Old-time preparations were designed merely to stop the pain. This isn't enough. Dangerous ulcers may form during the course of such treatment.

For quick, safe relief from acid-indigestion — for full protection against dangerous possibilities—take a little pure, harmless Bi-nesia. This not only neutralizes excess stomach acid, preventing food-fermentation and gas, but is the one remedy which heals and protects the delicate stomach lining.

Doctors recommend Bi-nesia. Thousands use it. And we guarantee it to stop any attack of acid indigestion in less than five minutes or your money back. Get a 50 cent package of tablets or powder of your druggist today. Bi-nesia is safe, quick and harmless.

BOND ISSUE IN VOTERS' HANDS

charging the latter is an "obstructionist." Armstrong went into detail replying to McGovern's allegations made in connection with the management of the county's affairs. He said in part:

"County Commissioner McGovern's statement is but further proof of his unfamiliarity with the county's business. Mr. McGovern was County Controller for 18 months, and, during all of that time was unable to advise the taxpayers as to the financial condition of the county.

"The oft-repeated statements that the county was in a deplorable financial condition has been plainly disproved by the independent audit being made by Ernst & Ernst under an authorization of the present commissioners. This audit is now in progress, but it required only three weeks' time to learn the county's true borrowing power. They showed that instead of being bankrupt Allegheny county is in a very healthy state financially, with a borrowing margin of over $117,000,000.

James C. Chaplin, president of the Peoples' Bond Issue Association, issued a statement urging every elector to vote today.

"If this county is to enjoy continued progress and prosperity, all of the seven items of the issue should go over the top," Mr. Chaplin said.

The questions to be voted on:

Question No. 1—Roads.

Borough and township roads in virtually every section of the county, $4,550,000; grade crossing eliminations, $1,000,000; elimination of curves with erection of safety barriers, $1,000,000—total, $6,550,000.

Question No. 2—Boulevards.

Saw Mill Run boulevard, $1,162,500; Ohio River boulevard, $5,343,000; Allegheny River boulevard, $3,535,000; Moss Side boulevard, $890,000—total, $10,930,000.

Question No. 3—Parks.

Acquiring additions to North and South county parks, paying off obligations for purchase of present park land and park improvements—$1,500,000.

Question No. 4—Bridges.

McKees Rocks bridge, $6,914,000; West End-North Side bridge, $3,540,000; Tenth street bridge rebuilding, $1,925,000; Boston bridge, $900,000 and building of 42 minor bridges—total, $14,650,000.

Question No. 5—Building.

Erection of new county office building at Diamond and Ross streets on land owned by the county, $2,550,000.

Question No. 6—Town Hall.

Public auditorium or town hall, $6,000,000.

Question No. 7—Airport.

Allegheny county airport, county's share, $1,500,000.

In addition to the county's, other bond issues being voted on are: Wilkinsburg, $750,000; Brentwood, $150,000; Carnegie, $275,000, and Harrison township, $125,000.

COURT HALTS AUTO MERGER

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—A temporary injunction, issued in behalf of a minority stockholder of Dodge Brothers, Inc., automobile manufacturers, today threatened the $250,000,000 merger of that company with the Chrysler Corporation. It forbade the transfer of assets pending a hearing today.

The injunction was taken out in the name of Col. Calvin H. Goddard, of Richmond, Va., holder of 100 preference shares of Dodge stock, but House, Holthusen and McCloskey, his lawyers, said they represented holders of 5,000 shares or 7 per cent of the preference stock.

The writ was directed against the two corporations and Dillon, Read & Company, bankers and present owners of the Dodge Company.

Last midnight had been fixed as the final hour for the deposit of Dodge stock and the bankers had expected to be able to announce today whether the merger would be put into immediate effect.

Convention Day by Day

By

O. O. M'INTYRE

HOUSTON, TEX., June 26.

WITH a big hug for the Chamber of Commerce, and in a nice, gentle, manly way, it is hot here today. Not the blistering heat of the sun-scorched Pampas, but warm enough for a guy with an ordinary summer suit to gaze enviously at the white, filmy, seersucker creation adorning Maj. Raymond Dickson, of Bolling, Tex., sah.

But Houston goes in for hot stuff of all sorts. Those for instance, who love he-food with a firey tang find this town right up their street, that is to say—the berries. It is the citadel of the succulent chili con carne, the tangy hamberger and the hot tamale that is liable to explode in your hand. I'll whisper it's a hot city in more wyas than one.

Last night the town was a little goofy. I have the feeling I had the day Aunt Het took me to the circus and the wild man jumped at me—all a-twitter. I just looked at my watch three times, and then asked a stranger what time it was, and have misplaced my gold toothpick.

It had been a day of screeches yip-ees, hoorays, bursting rockets flag-waving, trumpeting horns and all the other foolish fol-de-rol of a city gone mad and klaxoning its madness. Twice I have stuck my head out of the window of the hotel, clapped my hands and cried: "See here, this nonsense must cease." But as a nonsense ceaser I'm not a success in a large way.

I am afraid to sit down anywhere for more than two minutes for fear some hellish contraption will go off with a bang under me. And that would not be good for my rickets. It is no place for a boy with "second company nerves." If it keeps up I'm going to pack my olive colored shooting spats and go hunting for bobcats for a little peace.

Even the newsboys yell differently. They are not content with the laconic cry: "Big convention news." One leather-lunged soandso rushed by at sun-up this morning yelling: "Governor Al Smith of New York to be nominated on the first ballot at the great Democratic convention."

You rather expect him to totter into the gutter breathless before he could tell you where the convention was to be held.

You can jot this down—on the back of any old envelope will do—that this city has not gone off half-cocked in handling this jamboree. I seem to be full of "thises." One of the impressive gestures is hospitality house, rushed up in 18 working days and covers a city block opposite convention hall.

Here one may receive everything from medical treatment for sunburned tonsils to a needle and thread to save a gallus button. It was the idea, incidentally, of W. C. Hogg, as well known to New York as he is to Houston.

One cannot go a block without flushing up a bevy of celebrities from far and near. If you cared to be rough you could trip up a handful of United States Senators or a New York dude crossing a hotel lobby and wouldn't that be fun?

Cupping a shell-like ear, one hears chiefly talk of Al Smith and that the exercises at convention hall will be brief and snappy. But all this, of course, is conjecture. This convention is dynamite and nobody know whom the boys in the back room will have.

One of the thrills of the visit has been the attachment formed between a little Mexican donkey and myself. It roams the streets carrying a blanket banner and followed me three blocks into a restaurant. And, of course, some lady in passing would say: "This one in front is that New York writer what's-his-name."

And speaking of ladies, it seems they have preserved the Southern accent and the colloquialisms more than the men. Among a group of them chattering in the hall yesterday there drifted such phrases as "sho nuff," "I reckon," "I'll declahe," and "you all."

Each one of the hotel rooms here is equipped with one of those huge revolving fans like they used to have to keep the flies off the free lunch. Anyone who has never tossed an egg in them has never really lived. Not that we want to start anything in Houston, but share the idea among you—with love and kisses.

So far as we can observe from here—daylight saving time—everybody who is to do their stuff on the floor of convention hall has arrived, including the diplomatist from Boston, who brought along his big buff cab driver's overcoat. Grandpa used to say you could always count on Boston. But he would never say for what.

We are nearing the zero hour. Everything is tense and don't be surprised if I telephone you in the middle of the night. It will be because I'm just bursting with news and can't wait.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

"THE SAFETY-FIRST AGE."

THIS is the "Safety-First Age"—the era of fool-proof traffic lights, kissproof lipsticks, waterproof rouge and fireproof hearts.

A man never forgets a woman's first kiss—if she is careful to make it the last.

One of life's baffling mysteries, to a man, is how a woman always knows when another woman is going to be a temptation to him—even before HE does.

HELEN ROWLAND

It takes an awfully brave woman to stand up for the charms of good old-fashioned monogamy in an ultra-modern country club crowd.

It doesn't seem to matter how much paint, knees or vertebrae a girl shows if she is careful not to shock the men by displaying any few brains she may have under her water-wave.

"The wolf at the door" that bothers most women is the hungry one that appears about 6 p. m. with that "Well-make-it-snappy!" look in his eyes.

There never was a man quite so bad that he didn't admire a woman for declining to let him regard her as "just another telephone number."

At 17 a girl yearns for a "great lover," at 20 for a great spender, at 30 for a good provider—or "what have you?"

Is it the sport of the thing or just sheer laziness that makes the modern girl prefer snitching some other woman's husband to finding her own raw material and putting on the finishing touches herself?

You can get almost anything just by pressing a button these days—except unadulterated buckwheat, undenatured alcohol, and undiluted love.

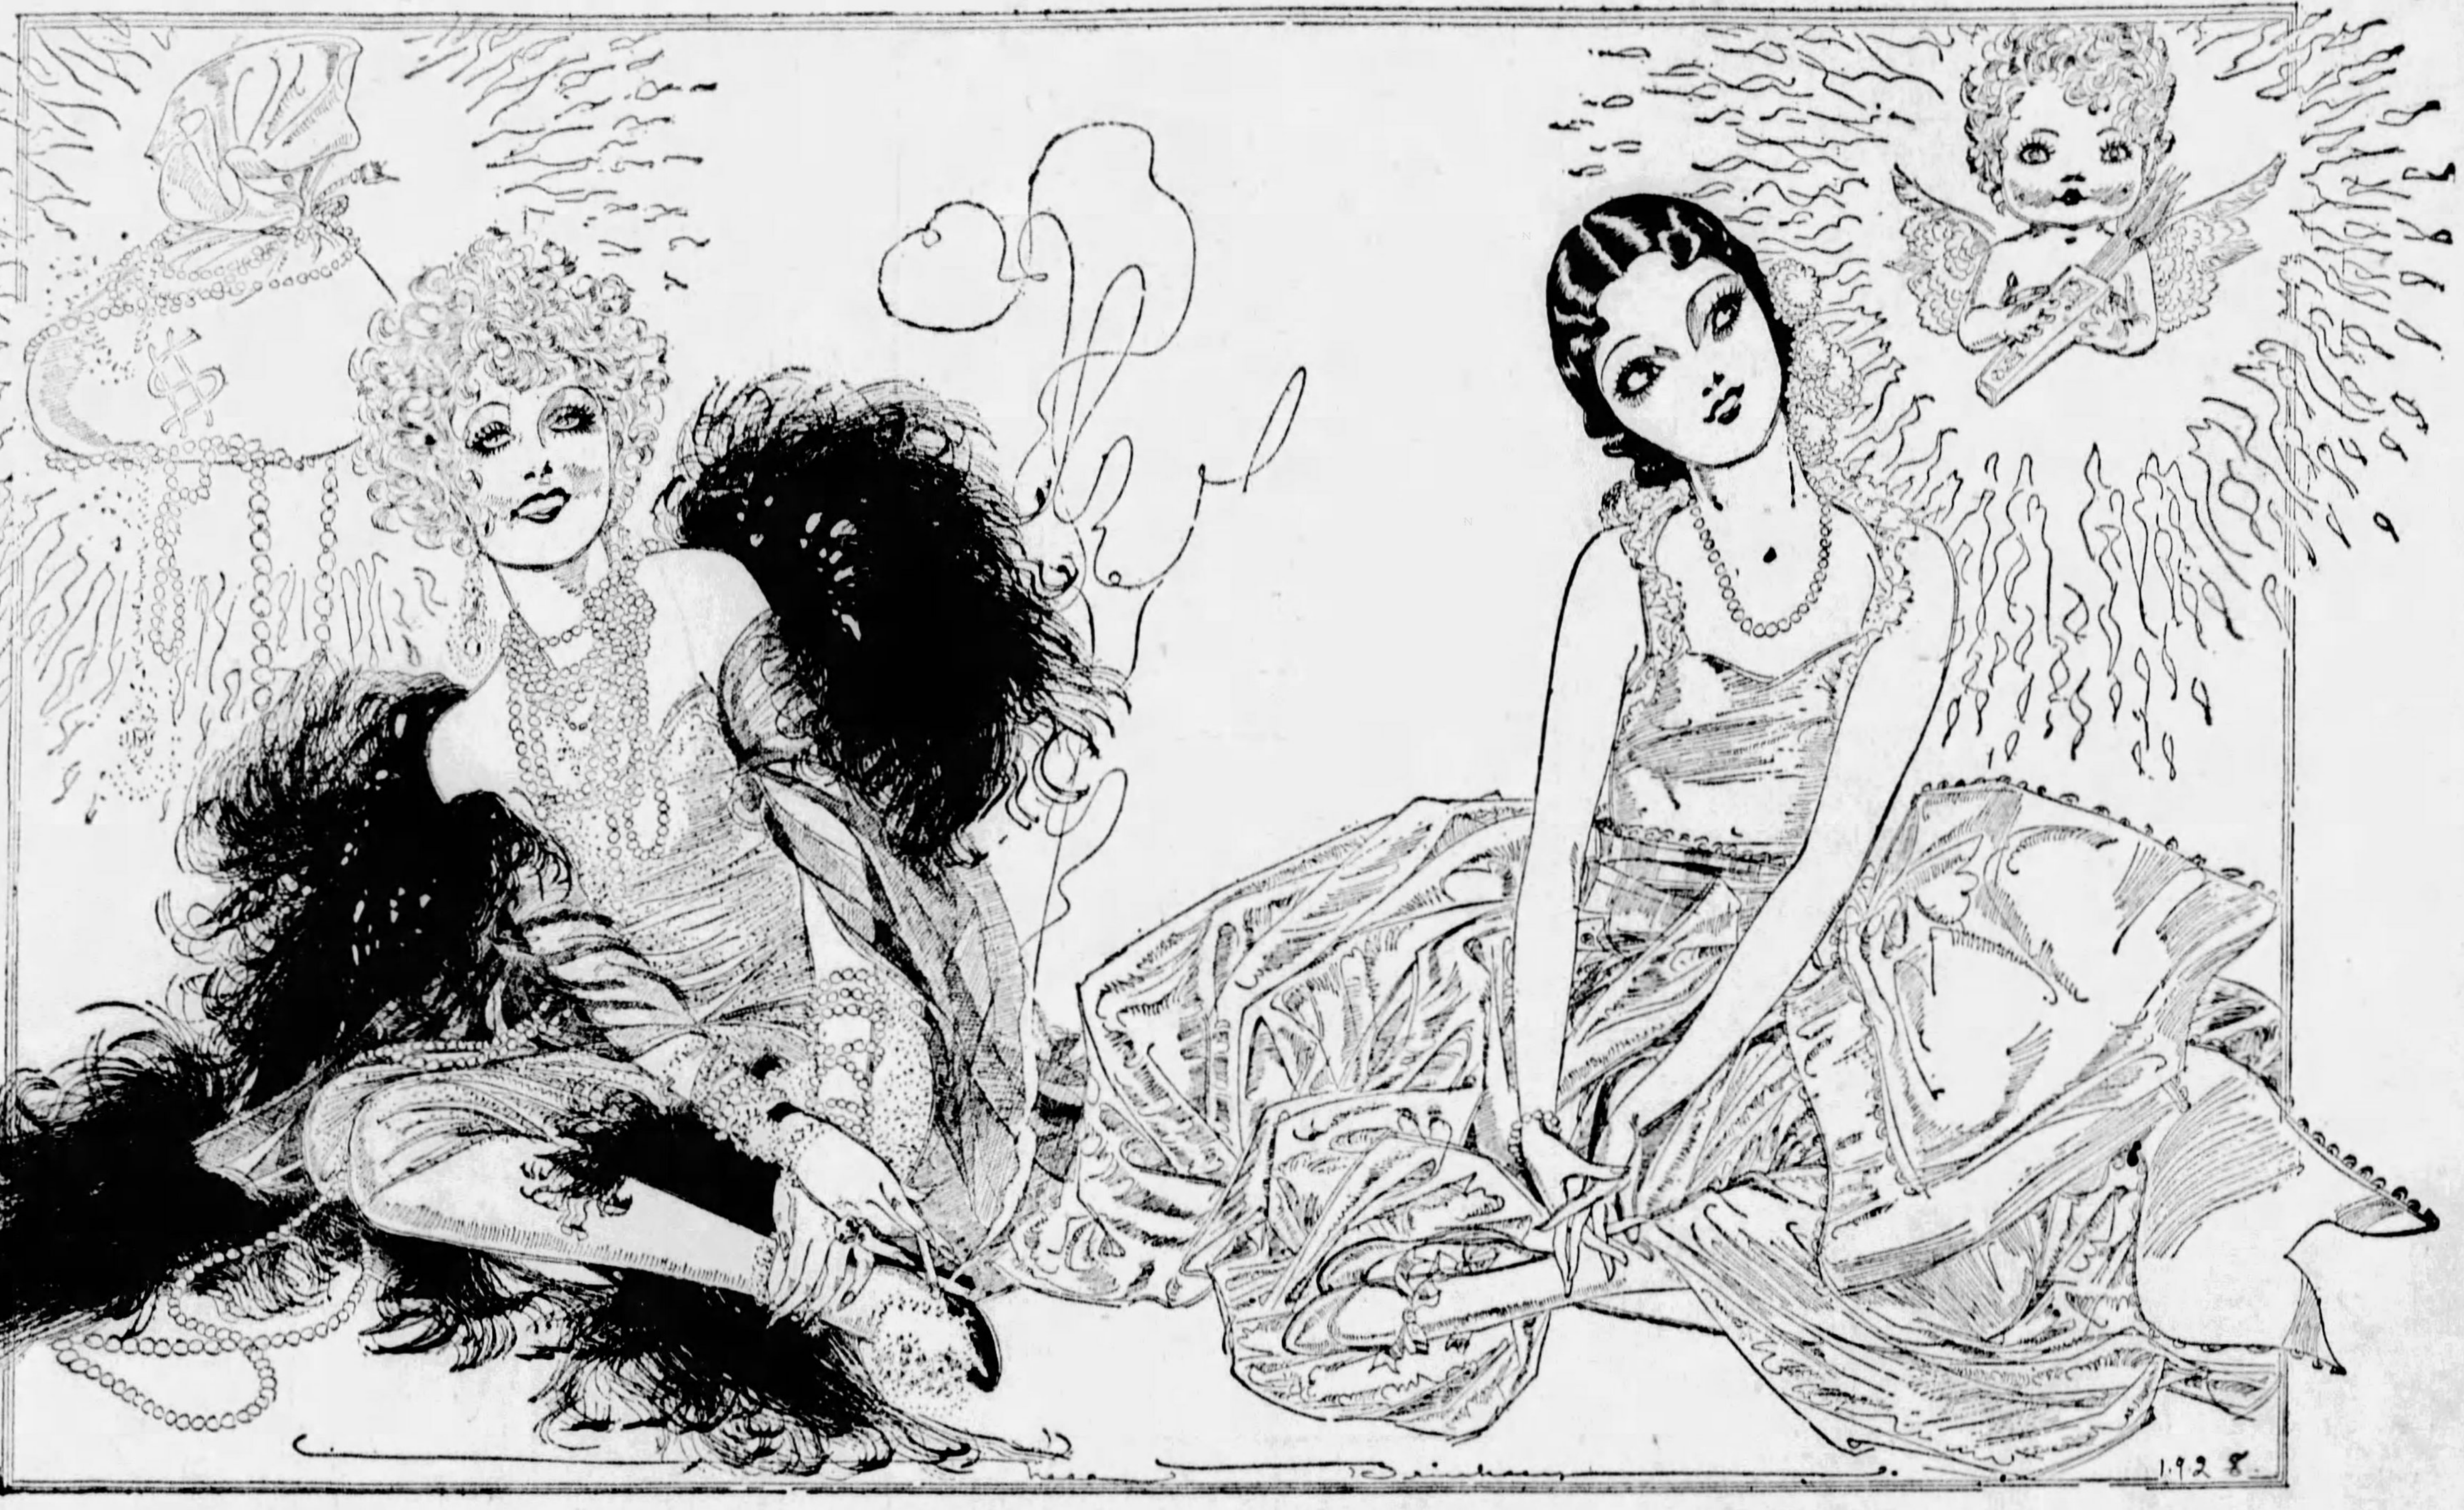
CUPIDITY AND CUPID

Drawn by Nell Brinkley



CUPID is the little figure on the altar for some—for myriads of young ladies flying about on their lively affairs. In the backs of their pretty heads, if you were able to contemplate them transparently, you would see the flaming image, like the trembling apparition of the armored Saint of Jeanne d'Arc's vision, the flaming image of plain young Cupid, with no trimmings. At home the same pretty heads are bowed in worship and belief, and flowers as unspotted and fresh as themselves are laid at his feet. Along with wishes for his coming and belief in his immortality and his perfection.

And another altar of some other young ladies, flying about their lively affairs, also, is a different figure, quite a chesty one, sitting solidly on the earth—Cupidity, with a figure very like a money-bag. Alas! a young lady who has lost her faith in love somewhere on the highway and lays her wishes and her hothouse flowers at the feet of his more worldly brother god, Cupidity, god of luxury, hung about with precious stones, singing a song of comfort, pocket full of pence.

The cynic will eye these two symbolic figures and say: "You can't alwyas tell now! The flamboyant girl of the right may have just poor taste, maybe her jewels are not real, and secretly she may worship Cupidon. And the demure young lady in the blue sash may be all unconsciously a victim of dreams the most material you could summon. Sable and diamond dreams, Cupidity on high, and Cupid dethroned, or never there." NELL BRINKLEY.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, June 27

ACCORDING to the excellent configurations of the moon to important planets, this day should afford highly desirable opportunities for advancement, achievement and many pleasant developments and associations. Business, employment and artistic and social activities should prove avenues of cherished attainment, but all these may be jeopardized by a proclivity to rash and tumultuous conduct and speech. Also a temptation to extravagance and speculation would menace these many benefits.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of excellent opportunity for advancement, success and progress as well as happiness, if they will but curb a proclivity toward rash and impetuous words and speech as well as an inclination towards speculation and extravagance.

A child born on this day may be endowed with many faculties for success and happiness in life, but it should be given early discipline in self-control, prudence and thrift.

Most boys and girls, too, are a bit bashful, so don't worry about it. Try to think less of yourself and more of the girl. That might help.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

Ills of Childhood Better Understood

YEARS ago a good many physical ailments were not understood. It was not unusual to group several ailments which are now recognized as separate and distinct diseases. Pneumonia, for instance, is now divided into several different "types."

DR. COPELAND

Bacteriology, the science dealing with germs, has revealed the true nature of a good many diseases. It has proven that some of those which were formerly counted as separate diseases, are really identical.

As an example, let us consider the old-fashioned "membranous croup," as it was called. This is now recognized as diphtheria.

There is another disease which used to be called "false croup." It wasn't croup at all. Now it is referred to as "spasmodic laryngitis."

The larynx is the part of the throat between the base of the tongue and the windpipe. It is lined with mucous membrane and, like such membrane elsewhere, this is a tissue which is liable to become inflamed.

Children between the ages of 2 and 5 are most likely to be attacked by croup. It is preceded for a couple of days or less by running of the nose, slight cough and, possibly, a little fever. It may be thought the child has a mild cold.

In other cases there may be no warning signs. The attack may come on with great suddenness.

In the early part of the night, usually after the first sleep, the child is aroused from a sleep which may have been natural and undisturbed. He awakens with a loud and barking cough. It is a peculiar, metallic cough.

There is very marked difficulty in breathing. Every breath seems harsh and whistling. The swelling of the membrane leaves little space for the entrance and exit of air.

The face becomes flushed. The skin is hot and the pulse is rapid. The child gives every evidence of fear, as well as suffering. He cries, is very restless and wants to be carried. In an hour or so the symptoms improve and the breathing is less difficult.

The attack may be repeated the next night and perhaps for two or three nights.

In the treatment there are two things to be accomplished. The first and immediate thing is to overcome the spasmodic closure of the throat. Then the inflammation may be treated.

If hot water can be had, fill a tub with it, at a temperature of about 100 degrees. Keep the little patient in this for a quarter of an hour. Be very careful not to scald the child.

Sometimes a hot foot bath, with a tablespoonful of mustard in the water, will relieve the symptoms. This may be enough to give complete relief.

The common household treatment is to give an emetic. For this purpose syrup of ipicac alone or with syrup of squills is a favorite remedy.

My Bleach for Tan and Freckles

"I continue my photographic posing all through the summer," says Miss Emily Boyle, noted New York camera model, "and being inclined to tan and freckle, I have to have a bleach that will keep my skin white and flawless and at the same time is harmless.

"For my bleach I use no ready-made preparation, but simply get three ounces of Orchard White at the drug store and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a quarter pint of a perfectly marvelous bleach for a few cents. Rubbed into the face, neck and arms, it bleaches away tan and freckles and makes any dark, sallow or discolored skin beautifully clear and white. This is the bleach all the studio models learn about soon after they begin posing. No ready-to-use preparation can equal it, because, for one reason, you use it while it is still fresh."

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Simplicity Marks Marriage of Elisabeth Mellon to John B. Sellers in North Negley Ave. Home

THE weddings of two cousins could scarcely offer more contrast than do the extreme simplicity of yesterday's ceremony when Elisabeth Mellon married John B. Sellers, and the magnificent Meloln-Scaife nuptials last fall. Of course you know that the reason Elisabeth's wedding was so small was the illness of her mother, Mrs. Thomas A. Mellon.

The ceremony yesterday was performed at 4 o'clock in the Mellon home in North Negley avenue by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church. Elisabeth had announced, you remember, that she was not going to have any attendants, but she changed her mind and had her younger sister, Helen, for maid of honor. But the guest list remained very small, including just the families and a few friends.

Elisabeth's gown was of white satin trimmed with old family lace, and made with a long lace court train. She wore a tulle veil which was held in place with a coronet of lace, and carried orchids and lilies of the valley. Helen wore French blue crepe and she carried a Colonial bouquet of yellow roses and blue delphiniums.

The young Mr. and Mrs. Sellers havve left for an extensive trip, and when they get back they will live in Maryland avenue.

Mrs. Samuel Alfred McClung, Jr., Elisabeth's aunt, who had gone to her summer home in Cherry Valley, N. Y., came back for the wedding, and two other aunts, Miss Amy B. Wightman and Miss Elisabeth L. Wightman, of Washington, also are here. Mrs. George Hasbrouck came on from her home in Berwyn to see her cousin married, and so did Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Collins and their daughter, Martha, of Greenwich, Conn.

ANOTHER interesting wedding yesterday, this one an out-of-town affair with local connections, was that of Theodosia Shaler, daughter of Mrs. Theodosia S. Reynolds, of New York, and the late Harry Gibson Shaler, of Pittsburgh, to H. Vincent Davis. The ceremony was performed at noon in St. Bartholomew's Chapel by the Rev. Dr. Clifton Macon. Later, there was a breakfast at the Barclay Hotel.

Theodosia was given away by her brother, Harry Gibson Shaler, and she had Alma Clarita Mestres for her maid of honor. I am sure you will be interested to know that Miss Mestres is being married tomorrow to Charles Moeser, Jr., of Cincinnati, in St. Bartholomew's, and that the new Mrs. Davis will be one of the matrons of honor. The other matron of honor will be Mrs. James Henry, Jr., of Pittsburgh, and another Pittsburgher, Thomas C. Wallace, will be an usher.

But to get back to the Shaler-Davis wedding, Mr. Moeser and Richard A. Mestres were the ushers, and Mr. Davis' best man was Charles Sutherland. Dr. D. McWilliams played a special musical program which included "Theodosia's Wedding Song," composed especially for the occasion by Dr. August King-Smith.

Mr. Davis, who is a son of the late Dr. H. V. Davis, an eminent English physician and surgeon, is a member of the faculty of the Hill School at Pottstown, Pa. He and his bride are going to spend their honeymoon in the northern woods.

A WEDDING date added to that very small July social calendar is that of Pauline Louise Lingenfelser, daughter of Frederick Lingenfelser, of South Negley avenue. She will marry Howard E. Wilson, son of the Curtin Meade Wilsons, of South Atlantic avenue, on July 14.

THE marriage of Miss Marion Elizabeth Bickell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bickell, of Beechwood avenue, Carnegie, and Lyle Cunningham Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hughes, of New Castle, was solemnized last Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church of Carnegie by the Rev. Dr. John M. Wishart. The bride wore white satin and Chantilly lace, with a tulle veil held with a cap of lace, and she carried roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Ethel McPeak, as maid of honor, wore pink taffeta, while the bridesmaid, Miss Margaret Walker, wore orchid taffeta. Suzann McCabe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. McCabe, of Carnegie, as flower girl, wore orchid and pink silk. J. Reginald Hughes, of New Castle, was his brother's best man and the ushers included Harry Garvey, of Carnegie; Clinton Keagy, of New Castle; Donald Gaylor and John Illig, of Pittsburgh. A reception in the Bickell home followed the ceremony. After a motor trip to Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will live in Youngstown, O.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH A. BECK, of Lytton avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Elnora Beck, to James William Cannon, son of James H. Cannon, of Oakmont.

A FAREWELL outing was given Friday at the Laboreall and Russo farm in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George Quell, of Los Angeles, who have been visiting Mrs. Quell's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Kemman, of Forty-fifth street.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Isla Flanegin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Flanegin, of the East End, and Edward Zahn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Zahn, which was solemnized Thursday night in the Schenley Heights Methodist Episcopal Church by the Rev. Chester Clark. PGH. B. P. W. LEAVE JULY 5 FOR CONCLAVE

SEVEN members of the Pittsburgh Business and Professional Women's Club will leave here the morning of Thursday, July 5, bound for New Orleans, where the tenth annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will be held July 9 to 14. The Pittsburgh delegation will stop in Washington and there board "the president's special" train, which leaves New York at noon on the fifth with the northeastern and New York delegations, including the national president, Mrs. Lena Madesin Phillips, aboard. The entire party will tarry in Washington only long enough for dinner with the Washington B. P. W., then on to Charlottesville to receive from the Virginia Federation a taste of southern hospitality, which is to include breakfast, and visits to the University of Virginia and Monticello, Mrs. Phillips placing a wreath on Jefferson's tomb. In Greensboro the North Carolina delegation will be met and Friday evening spent with its members, while on Saturday morning the travelers will be guests of the Atlanta Club at breakfast and a drive to Stone Mountain. Saturday evening will find the party in Montgomery, Ala., where a typical barbecue and watermelon cut have been arranged. All sorts of interesting features are promised along the Mississippi gulf coast—a trip to one of the islands, surf bathing, a drive along the coast boulevard—for July 8 before leaving Gulfport for the convention city.

MISS JENNIE S. BEAM, second vice president of the Quota Club, presided yesterday at the luncheon meeting in the William Penn Hotel. Miss Anna Egan, the president, is on her way to Davenport, Ia., to attend the annual convention of Quota Clubs International. Mrs. Henry Chalfant Miller, representing the League of Women Voters, spoke against the county bond issue which is being voted on today. Mrs. Miller granted the need of a town hall, but queried, "Do we want it at this price?" She also asked "Can we not have civic improvements without bonding our great grandchildren?" And concerning the parks she said, "We do need parks, but do we need them all at one time?" Mrs. E. C. Thompson, of Cortland, O., Miss Beam's sister, was a guest at the luncheon.

Sun-Tele Jubilee Coupon

JUBILEE MANAGER, SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

I would like to attend The Sun-Telegraph Boys' and Girls' Jubilee July 3.

My folks are regular readers of The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh's greatest newspaper.

Please mail a ticket with the 14 coupons—good for admission to 12 amusement attractions and for the "Cream of the Valley" French Vanilla Ice Cream Bar, also the balloon.

PICNIC TICKET LIST CLOSING

With nearly 20,000 tickets to the Sun-Tele Jubilee at National Amusement Park already sent out, the Jubilee Manager is swamped with application coupons from his young friends today. Very soon the limit will be reached in the acceptance of application for the big outing on Tuesday, July 3.

In tomorrow's Sun-Tele the last coupon will be printed, and in using these in applying for tickets they must be sent immediately. No tickets can be sent out in exchange for coupons received after Thursday.

So many coupons have been received that there will be some delay in mailing out tickets. At least this will be the case for the next day or two, but those who have sent their coupons need not be impatient because all will be mailed as rapidly as possible.

Mothers, big sisters and all grown-up persons who accompany groups of four or five or more of the Sun-Tele's little guests will be admitted to the park free, of course, and if they send a coupon regularly filled out they also will receive a ticket of admission to the various atttractions free to the children. In ordeer that no child shall be disappointed, an exception will be made to this rule in case a mother desires to accompany her one son or daughter and finds no other little folks to join their group. Mothers or sisters who have one or two children in families will also receive a strip of tickets if they send their coupons regularly filled out.

All plans are going forward merrily for the big time. The Jubilee manager hears that in many localities good hearted people are furnishing their automobiles and are preparing to bring large groups of children of their neighborhood and will look after the chaperons as well. Fathers of boys and girls who have automobiles are inviting the neighborhood children to join, and in this way the transportation problem is solving itself. Those traveling on street cars will go on the Aspinwall line to the Aspinwall terminus and take the Allegheny Valley line beyond if they do not care for the pleasant walk beyond Aspinwall.

Reinhold's "cream of the valley," the delicious ice cream furnished in the French vanilla bar will be supplied to every holder of a ticket and in many instances it will be the first coupon to be "cashed."

And so, Sun-Tele boys and girls, send in your coupons early.

ASKS FUNDS TO FIGHT MATE'S DIVORCE SUIT

Albert E. Flack, Kelly street, a prohibition agent in the office of John D. Pennington, who has sued his wife, Amy H. Flack, Front street, Verona, for divorce will have to fight to get it. This was revealed when Attorney Clem M. Strobel, representing Mrs. Flack, appeared before Judge Ambrose B. Reid in Common Pleas Court and presented a petition for counsel fees, announcing that the case will be contested when it comes to trial. Mrs. Flack is accused of cruel and barbarous treatment which she denies.

ONLY MARRIED, SHE WIRES PARENTS

While police were seeking her supposed kidnapers, on a report made by members of her family, Winifred Feeney, 18, of 2809 White street, sent a telegram to her parents this morning saying she was married.

"We were married last night," the telegram, dated Wellsburg, W. Va., read, "George and Winifred."

George Connelly, 32, of the Hill district, had been attentive to her daughter for several months, the girl's mother said.

Winifred left home last night ostensibly to make an appointment with the superintendent of St. John's Hospital with a view to obtaining employment as a nurse.

TWO MORE GIVE FOR BABIES

Again a pair of gifts for The Sun-Tele Milk and Ice Fund and both are from friends who made themselves known in former years! Under her initials "A. S. E.", a donor who has contributed in other seasons has sent $10 to be added to the fund this year, while the Mizpah Bible Class of the Bellevue Methodist Protestant Church, increases it to the extent of $5. Together they bring the fund to $224.48.

More, much more, than this is necessary if the great work of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Milk and Ice Association is to be carried on under its present efficient standards. Of the 300 babies which the association has in its care, the majority are American-born and of American parents, the fathers in the families being out of employment.

Four Pieces $195

IN THE handling of proportions, woods and detail, the "Hull" is decidedly a product of the modern craftsman's art. The low graceful sweep of the bed's design, the dropping of the decorative woods to the lower drawers, and the use of hanging mirrors is smartly fashionable—the style of today, made by Berkey & Gay, the style leaders.

Yet the quaintness and simplicity of early New England's furniture is there, too—a charm a century old, and a charm that will endure forever. Large surfaces are mahogany with decorative paneling done in hand matched crotch Mahogany of beautiful figure, and structural details in American Gumwood. Mahogany dust proof drawers; antiqued brass fittings; hand rubbed finish.

Kitten Tries to Help Emily With the Work As a Penance

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

Emily Day and Kitten are daughters of a worker in the Rossiter factory. Both are prevented by poverty from mingling with the socially elect of the little town. Emily has made an ideal of Kent Rossiter. Mary Nolan, whose father keeps a "speakeasy," is devoted to her. Mrs. Frances Haiden, a wealthy interior decorator, takes an interest in her and tells her the only aristocracy is that of work. She gets a job with Mrs. Haiden. Her father dies and Rossiter offers help, which her mother declines. Kitten, Emily's sister, is going with a wild crowd and is running close to danger.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

KITTEN was eager to go. But there was no use asking permission at home. Even Muz would question this. And when she did inquire, tentatively, if she might spend the night with Dottie, Emily raised such fierce objections that Agnes backed her up.

But there was the window above the kitchen roof and the grape trellis.

Kitten went to bed with her clothes on and waited until the house was still. Then she crept over the sill lightly, softly as a little ghost, and raced for the corner where the others waited.

Ted was rather gruff she thought; not nearly so delighted with the prospect of a party as she had expected him to be.

"You oughtn't do this, Kitten. Isn't what a nice girl would do, come sneaking out."

But intoxicating little shivers of anticipation were going over her; she cuddled against his arm with a gay, teasing air and asked who wanted to be nice.

"You do. Don't know it, maybe, but you do. Besides I want you to be."

"Ole crab! S'pose you think I like you snappy, that way, ole crab."

He bent his head so the dash-light shone up against his face and she saw that his eyes were grave. "Yes, I do think you like me. And I like you. That's why I want to take care of you. Why not let me come and meet your folks, Kitten?"

She wouldn't have that. Her whole instinct was to keep her affairs to herself and away from Em and Muz.

The flask had been circulating in the back seat and the four there were shouting and laughing. Ted refused it when they tried to draw him in.

"That stuff don't mix with gas. Besides someone's got to stay sober on these roads."

"All the more for us then, Teddy." And they started to sing in high voices, far off the key.

The car was stopped finally, at a little deserted summer camp and they got out, Dottie clinging to one of the boys and Flossie staggering a bit.

They were high up in the hills, gaunt peaks rearing in every direction, while moonlight silvering scrub pine and a noisy little mountain stream, touching everything with weird beauty.

But they cared nothing for this. They broke into the big hall of the camp house and tried to dance, tumbling at every turn.

"You see, Kitten?" Ted asked in a disgusted voice. "And they think they're having fun!"

"Oh," angrily, "I s'pose you've never been drunk in your life!"

"Certainly I have. I'm no angel. But not with a girl like you, Kitten—"

She jerked away and went outside. Spoil party! Setting himself up to boss her—she'd show him!

Yet as the noise grew louder in the camp house and Flossie's voice rose in shriek after shriek, she became a little frightened. This wasn't exactly the sort of fun she had looked for when they planned the ride. She wondered all at once what would happen if Emily should go into her room, as she sometimes did, and find her gone.

So she offered no objection when Ted came from somewhere and led her to the car.

"Getting too wild. Sorry to kill it, but you ought to be home. Anything can happen when such dumb-bells get lit."

He had more trouble getting the others to go. But they were quiet enough, all of them asleep in fact, when they drew into Lyall.

Kitten came home from the back way again, climbing through brush and locust down the hill. And a task it was, too, for she practically had to carry Dottie.

"Gosh, Kit, don' wanna go home. Wanna go joy-riding—"

"Shut up, sap. And you better figure out how you're going to get in. Must be 2 o'clock all righty."

"Don' wanna get in. Wanna go joy-riding!"

Kitten left her fumbling at the door and sneaked through the hedge. It took her less than a minute to scurry up the trellis, step out of her clothes and get into bed.

She was drowsing when a glow in the mirror of her dresser brought her eyes wide. Raising her head she could see the Brent house. Every window was alight.

"Oh Lord," she whispered, "that dumb-bell's got 'em up. Means trouble for somebody—it sure does!"

CHAPTER XXX.

KITTEN went about sweetly in the morning with little offers of help.

"I'll do the dishes, Em. Don't bother. Listen; want me to press your dress for tonight? Might as well."

"Why, that's nice of you, Kitten. It would save time."

"Sure. Anything else?"

Emily looked at her sister's downcast face, grown suddenly demure, and thought it a little pale. And Kitten offering to help, actually rinsing the dishes and stacking them away!

"Don't you feel well, dear?"

"Gosh! Guess you don't have to ask that the minute I want to do something around here. Guess you don't have to be sarcastic, Em Day."

"Of course I didn't mean to seem sarcastic, Kitten-cat. It's sweet of you to help."

Yet she wondered. She didn't see the uneasy glances Kitten kept stealing through the window toward the Brents'; she only felt that she must encourage this new mood.

Mrs. Haiden had invited her to dinner at the Yacht Club that evening and it occurred to her that Kitten would be a pleasant addition to the party.

"I'll ask Frances, dear. But I'm sure she'd like to have you. Want to come?"

"Do I! Well, just try to stop me! Say, that's grand of you, Em. You're kind of a nice ole thing after all."

It was settled that Emily would telephone after speaking to Frances. So, with the best of intention, she paved the way to the very end of the tricky road her sister already was traveling.

Kitten's jubilance died out when she saw Stella coming across the lawn. She made a frightened movement toward the door; then a hard, bright defiance took possession of her and she went on washing the dishes.

"Hear the racket over at our place last night?" Stella wanted to know. "And still going strong. Father stayed home today talking his head off, and there she sits looking like the very devil and not a word out of her!"

"Oh, is it Dottie? Why, Stell—"

"I'l say. Came home lit." Stella looked sharply at Kitten but the golden eyes met hers without a quiver.

Emily was white with horror. "But where had she been, Stell? And your father doesn't let her out nights. How terrible!"

"DO YOU KNOW HIM?"
KEEPS TRAFFIC MOVING

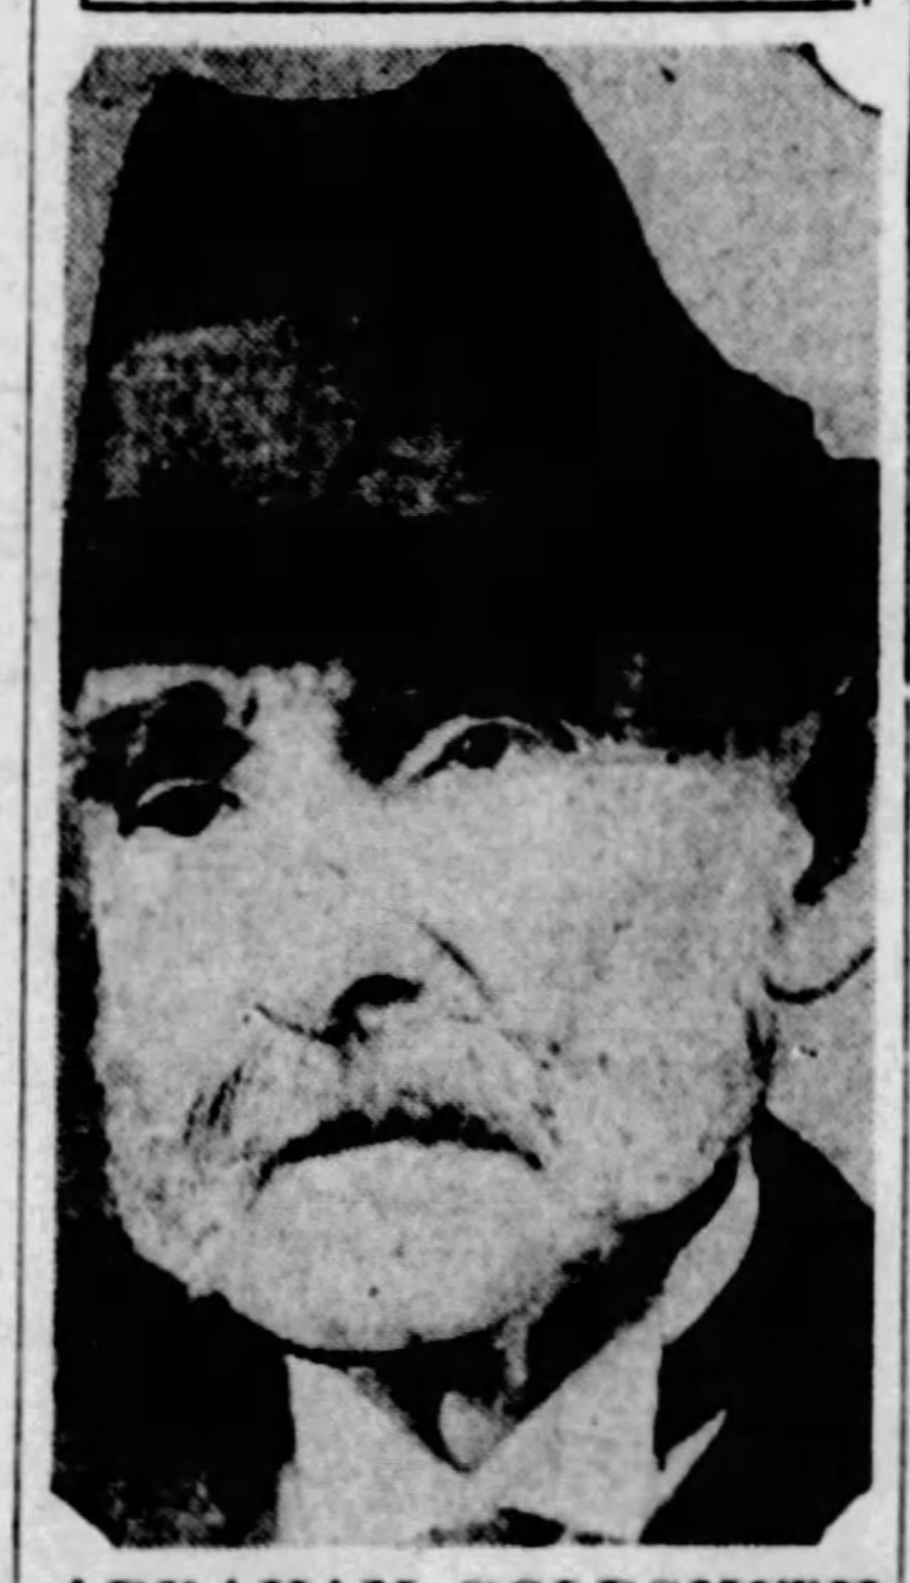
PHOTOS BY SUN-TELE STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER.

HE SHOULD BE A FRIEND OF YOURS

Wouldn't you like to drive to the office in the morning and speak thusly to your favorite "traffic cop" when he beams upon you—as though nothing ever happened to make him angry!—passing: "Good morning, Officer Rafferty"—or else, yell "Hi, Teddy!" Well, The Sun-Tele's series, "Traffic Cops," will tell you how. hTis fellow today, may be found downtown, but don't spend the day hunting for him when The Sun-Tele will tell you his name tomorrow.

MONDAY'S "TRAFFIC COP" WAS JAMES MARSHALL, 1807 METROPOLITAN STREET, WHO IS IN SOLE CHARGE OF AFFAIRS AT FEDERAL AND ROBINSON STREETS, NORTH SIDE. HE HAS BEEN A CORNERMAN FOR NINE OF HIS 15 YEARS IN THE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Veteran Dies



ABRAHAM GOLDSMITH

Abraham Goldsmith, 88, former Pittsburgher who has died at Cleveland, carried with him to the grave a leg riddled with Confederate bullets for which a surgeon urged amputation while he was held captive in Andersonville prison during the Civil War. Goldsmith escaped and joined Gen. Sherman on his celebrated march to the sea.

ARGUMENTS WET—ROGERS

By WILL ROGERS.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 26.—She is beginning to look like a convention. If all the Democrats here voted the same ticket, why any candidate could be elected.

Everybody has on a linen, or Palm Beach suit. Not white, but it was once.

If perspiration was a marketable commodity, the party could pay off the National deficit.

The Rice Hotel lobby is so packed I have reached up and mopped three other perspiring brows before I could find my own.

There is a nice cool breeze blowing outside down here all the time, but nobody will go outside.

It looks like all a convention is, is just to sweat on each other.

NO ROOM TO TALK

The lobby is so crowded that part of the New York delegation can't say a word.

And badges! If all the badges were laid end to end, they would reach to the White House.

Was up in Barney Baruch's room last night. He was busy unpacking his blank checks, getting ready for the deficit.

Admiral Dr. Grayson was with him. We talked till daylight of the times when Presidents were Presidents.

Was at lunch with Mrs. Woodrow Wilson at Jessie Jones' roof home on top of one of his cloud ticklers. Wonderful place. The only home I have seen to beat it was Waite Phillips' Buckingham Place in Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. Wilson looks wonderful and is as pleasant and charming as ever.

Had a long chat with young Gov. Dan Moody. Dan is for Smith if Smith will promise to make the party quit drinking and carousing.

Chatted with my old friend, Uncle Josephus Daniels. Uncle Joe would like to have the party eliminate gin and bitters.

PAT FOR HARMONY

Pat Harrison is for harmony, and he don't look natural running on that platform.

There is a fine rodeo show on here, and when I just can't stand looking more delegates in the face, I go out and look at the calves and bucking horses, and you know its kind of a relief.

The women drys here have a regular hall where they go and pray that no wet shall enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

They forget that when women enter politics, their prayers don't mean any more to the Lord. They are just classed with lepers.

A band of women hailed me yesterday and wanted me to write something about helping them get "equal rights." So I told 'em I thought myself that they had too many, and it was mighty nice of them to want to split some of them with the men.

SECOND PLACERS

The Vice Presidential candidates yesterday were as follows:

From 9 to 12 it was Cordell Hull, of Tennessee; then from 12 to 3, Jesse Jones, the Tex Rickard of promoting political combats; at 3 o'clock the heat in the lobby had changed the candidate to Gov. Donahey, of Ohio, a Democrat who thrives on Republican votes, and whose record equals Smith's. Then as I write this why my old fighting friend Joe Robinson is the logical nominee.

The whole talk down here is wet and dry, the delegates just can't hardly wait till the next bottle is opened to discuss it.

Prohibition is running about a quart to the argument here now.

The South say they are dry and by golly if the bootleggers don't rush on some more mighty quick they will be.

Tammany delegates were reached and instructed not to drink while here, and they are the lonesomest looking gang you ever saw. They all say: "Why pick on us to be the only sober ones here?"

Today it starts. The biggest show in the world. Houston is doing its part nobly. The actors have had four years to think up new things to call the Republicans, and it will be worth the money, for Democrats are the only race that can have arguments, even when they agree.

"Static" Leads Dry Agents to Radio Club

The Radio Club, occupying the second and third floors of 441 Sixth avenue, where, prohibition agents say, the clientele tuned in on high-powered beverages, was raided last evening.

Broadcasting, agents announced, was done with a copious supply of White Horse whisky, champagne, gin, Bacardi rum, ale, beer and kimmel. Value of the reputed contraband was placed at $5,000.

Joseph Dwyer, 50, of Grandview avenue, was reported found in the club. The club was said to have been under surveillance of the agents following reports that visitors had left imbued with static to such an extent that they followed an unsteady gait.

DUE ON 'CARPET,' LEAVES CITY

Public Safety Director James M. Clark, scheduled to appear before Council this afternoon to report on alleged wholesale violations of an ordinance prohibiting sale of fireworks without a permit, has left the city for several days, it was learned at his office this morning.

Director Clark was criticized by members of Council yesterday and they demanded a report from him today. A report, compiled by the police, will be submitted late today, it is understood.

"Your police are not enforcing the ordinance," Councilman Garland told Clark. "If they made a few arrests and put the fear of God into the hearts of those who violate the ordinance, the law would be observed."

Councilman Garland opposed the fining of those caught setting off fireworks. He suggested that a reprimand be given.

DEFENDS POLICE

Director Clark, alone defended his police bureau and informed Council that the ordinance was not consistent.

"A merchant by paying $50 can secure a license and sell fireworks," said the director. "If a boy sets them off he can be arrested."

Director Clark said that he has issued a police order to arrest every youth over 16 years of age. Those under 16 will be told to appear in Morals court with their parents, Clark told Council.

"The observance of the law is in your hands," Councilman Daniel Winters said. "We are going to hold you and every policeman under you directly responsible for every accident or death resulting from explosives ignited Fourth of July," Winters told the director.

CALLS FOR LIST

Councilman W. Y. English presented a resolution requesting the director to file with council a complete report of every small merchant who is selling fireworks with or without a city permit.

"The bootlegging of fireworks must stop," English said. "Have the policeman while covering his beat stop into all the stores and demand to see the license," English said. "If they cannot produce arrest them."

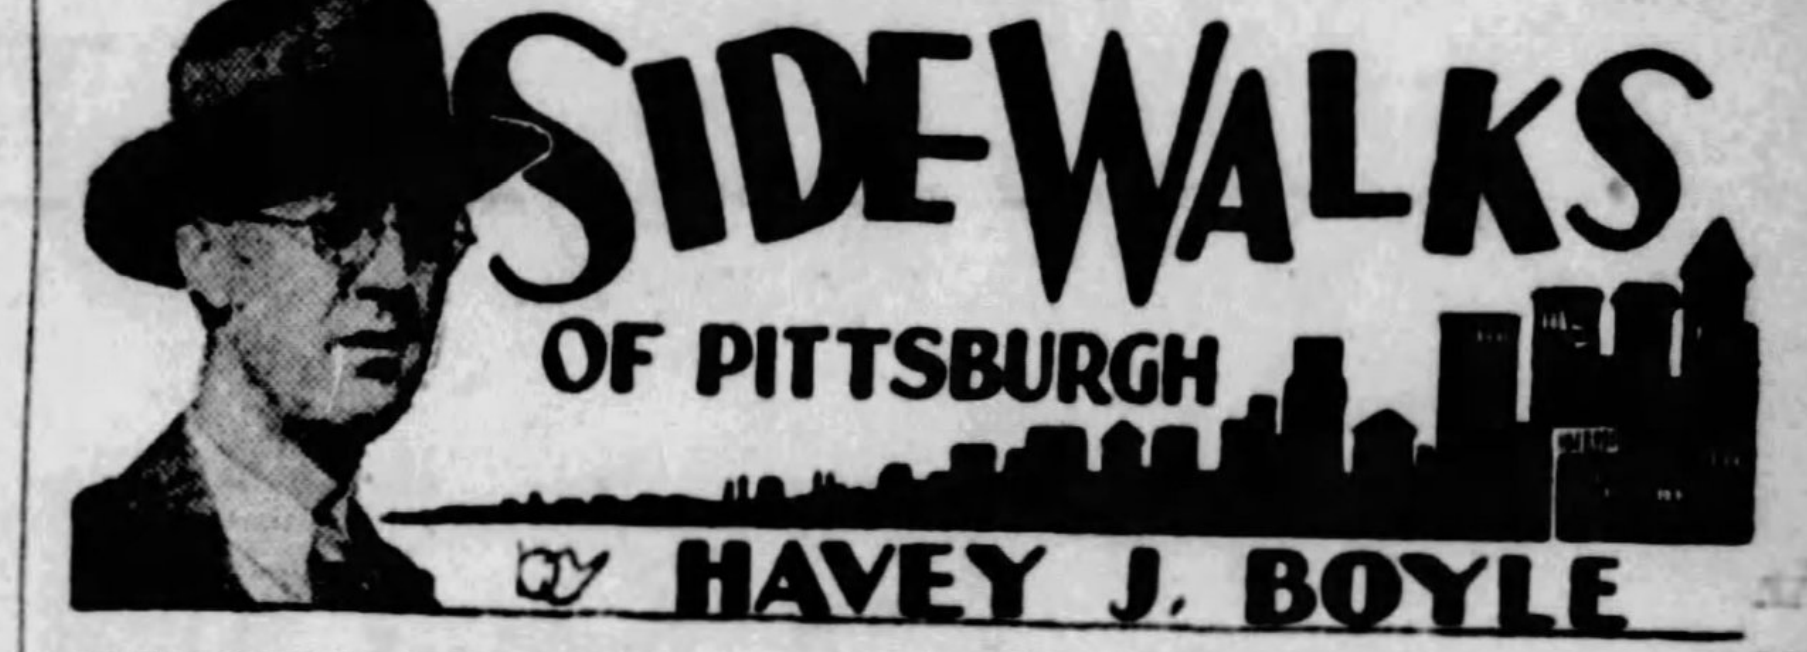
"Councilman English thinks all I have to do is to pluck policemen off bushes," Director Clark retorted.

"We are not asking anything unreasonable. You have 1,000 policemen, and they can secure the information without any neglect of their other duties."

The absence of Director Clark today precluded action by Council on the gambling matter. Yesterday he was ordered to make an immediate report on why he had not closed a gambling house in Baum boulevard near the home of Councilman Robert Garland. On account of the absence of Director Clark Council will have to wait for a report on the Baum boulevard gambling house and other places said to be operating gaming devices.

4 MERCER LAW VIOLATORS DIE

MERCER, Pa., June 26.—Death came to four men over the week-end, who ran afoul of the law. John Schnur, Sharon, charged with violating the automobile laws, was killed when his machine hit a stone wall, while Charles Swogger of near Clarksville, charged with a statutory offense, committed suicide. Edward Eakin, Grove City oil man, who recently forfeited $3,000 bail after being convicted of violating the liquor law, died suddenly in Bartlesville, Okla. Ralph Hellman, of Wilkinsburg, died in the county jail, presumably from poison liquor.



SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

MY DEAR SIR: In regard to the Bellaire, O., boy who made good in the big city, and one of your correspondents, L. K., who is, as yet, licking stamps and collecting rejection slips from the magazines, I present what might be considered a different viewpoint on the matter. I presume that L. K. is unaware of that stage which follows the rejection-slip period in an aspiring writer's career, which is marked by letters addressed to the author, signed by one of the editors. I have noted, oddly, in these letters—and I have them from even the Saturday Evening Post—that the manuscripts which are really good, invariably come back with a letter, whereas the ones that are not so good, even in my own estimation, bring only a rejection slip.

Once, by the way, I asked you for a job—I do not expect you to remember the incident—but you were unable to help me out. Since then I have established direct communications with the best magazines in the East and bid fair to break in any time. I am glad I did not get the job, but I have retained a pleasant memory of the incident.

I think the account you wrote one time of an interview with Jack Dempsey—I believe he was stretched on a rubbing-table, submitting to the ministrations of Jerry, his trainer, was one of the best-balanced bits of prose reading I've read in any man's newspaper. National letters may be missing something at that, which you denied the other day in telling about your passing up trying to make the magazines.

CAN'T MAKE IT!
NO?

L. K., who wrote of his pessimism because of his failure to click, should spit on his hands and remain at it. Signed: Ben Coyne, Pittsburgh.

Incidentally, there is probably another discouraged author in the country to swell the rising tide of hopelessness among the literary group. Here is a dispatch, obviously from someone taking a correspondence school course in journalism, or from someone who answers the gentlemen who seek correspondents in every town and hamlet to assist the newspapers in getting details of "local" events. The dispatch was sent to our city desk, but as luck would have it, it came in too late even for a makeover. It reads in full:

———, Ohio, June 21.—Caused by a heavy rain, all fields were flooded and vegetables were pulled out by the roots. Paint Creek has raised seven inches after the rain."

WHEN the dispatch arrived there was a wild scramble in the city room and a hasty conference held between the news editor and his colleagues. At first no one would believe that Paint Creek had reached the awful rise of seven inches, but one of the boys from that section recalled that once he remembered when the angry stream reached an eight-inch stage.

"What vegetables were pulled out by the roots?" asked a grumpy copyreader. "Let's go in with it that way," shouted someone feverishly, "and we'll amplify it later on." But already it was too late.

• • •

AND it is not impossible that the boy who saw important news in the rise of Paint Creek may some day be a good reporter, for there aren't many reporters, who at an early stage of their careers were not agitated by an "item" no more significant than the awful state of affairs in the region of Paint Creek.

A SEVEN INCH FLOOD STAGE?

We still smart from the time when Thomas F. Smiley, upon noting that we had written four handsome pages on the death of a baby by burning, neatly folded up the whole story, and suggested that it was stuff far too good for the news columns, and further suggested that in fairness to posterity it should be cast in bronze so that it would live forever, meanwhile spiking the great masterpiece on his ever-malignant copy hook.

HOME WOMAN'S GREATEST SPHERE—FAY KING

By FAY KING

SOME women prefer a career. Some women prefer a home. Some have given up a successful career for a home. Others have successfully combined the two.

It is a matter of choice these days, and decidedly each one's own business!

A woman who prefers to remain single is no longer ridiculed as an "old maid!" Marriage is no longer a woman's sole goal in life.

Being in business has given woman an independence of choice. She no longer marries because there is nothing else for her to do. She works until she meets the man she WANTS to marry!

But success in business has brought other problems. Many women have hesitated to marry because they resented foregoing further independent success in their work.

Other women who have succeeded in the new fields now open to women are inclined to look with disdain on what, to them, now seems the humbler sphere of the home.

It is with these women I become a bit bored. No woman has ever excelled man in any walk of life except that of mother and homemaker.

No woman can accomplish as much in any other way as the good mother does who instils worthy ambitions in her several sons!

The greatest success that any woman can achieve on her own is but a single success. Some mothers have sent into the world five or six sons into worthy successful places!

The home is still woman's widest sphere for influence!

10 CENTS AN HOUR PAID JUNCTION PARK DANCERS

NEW BRIGHTON, June 26.—"Thirteen" is hardly considered lucky by participants in dance marathon which ended at the Junction Park here. Each one of the six couples, which finished, received $13 for the week's grind, or at the rate of 10 cents an hour. They had been promised $50, but the marathon had proved a flop, the promoters said.

Clerk of Courts Office Yields County Profit

The County Clerk of Courts office, in addition to being self-sustaining last year, turned into the County Treasurer's office $18,537.03 in fees collected during the year.

Ernst & Ernst, public accountants, making an audit of the fiscal affairs of the county, have completed the audit of the Clerk of Courts office, according to a report submitted to County Controller Robert G. Woodside. $62,492.10 in fees was paid to the office last year. Salaries of all employes amounted to $13,955.07.

The Clerk of Courts office under former Clerk of Courts John Francis was one of the few county fee office able to show a profit.

BEAVER, June 26.—A heavy lens on his goggles deflected a bullet and probably saved the life of W. L. Williams, 28, 1300 Elm street, Canton, O. An unidentified man, with whom a brakeman had an argument at the Leetsdale crossing of the Pennsylvania station, is sought in the shooting. Williams was a fireman on the train.

TWO STOLEN IDOLS

MYSTERY!! THRILLS! ADVENTURE! LOVE!!!

by FRANK L PACKARD

Back in His Old Haunts Black Bob Is Greeted By Tao Lin

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

The body of Tom Kingsley is picked up by Capt. "Scarface" Sweeney and his mate, Marlow, off Singapore. Tom's brother, Robert, also an old "sea dog," is notified of the death and receives articles found on the corpse. Among these are two small but handsomely carved Ivory Idols. Robert Kingsley has good reason to believe that Hsi Yan, an ancient enemy, has returned after 30 years to seek vengeance. The Idols are stolen and Young Bob starts out to recover them. After many adventures Bob and Verna Lyle are both prisoners at Richardson's plantation. The Malay whom Bob had rescued plans Verna's and Bob's escape. Bob, still bound, is carried to safety by the Malay. Bob plans to leave Verna with friends in Kalawa. Bob finds one Idol and discovers it holds a message in cypher. He starts for Singapore determined to solve the mystery.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THAT was five years ago. The opium cruise had never been undertaken and never would be undertaken, but on several occasions when the Alita was in Singapore, he, Bob Kingsley, had revisited Java Dick's and the various other similar places where Java Dick had introduced him.

Not that he might indulge in depravity himself—a white man who had any self-respect did not mess around in such quarters!—but the starkness of it interested him, and a certain element of danger, always latent in the unexpected where the line of demarcation between beast and human was so nearly at the vanishing point, lured him, as somehow, he did not know why, danger and excitement had always lured him. He remembered now, for instance, the night in Java Dick's that the old Singalese cripple, gambling for the few pence that were his all, and, blind with fury at being cheated, had pinned the dealer's hand to the table with a sudden, lightning-like blow that left the knife embedded deep in the wood below, its haft quivering like a tuning-fork above the spitted flesh; and then the inferno that—

A voice at his elbow whispered out of the darkness, whining for alms. Oh, yes, he remembered that, too! Java Dick's sentinel! He was at the rear of Java Dick's place now, and had, indeed, been feeling out along the wall for the entrance that he knew was somewhere within a few yards of him. He could just make out a dark form looming up in front of him, blocking his way, as the whine came again. He answered the challenge with his name.

"Black Bob," he said — and lurched suddenly as though decidedly unsteady on his feet. A ripe degree of apparent intoxication would account to Java Dick for any uninvited confidences—and would stamp as wholly natural and genuine in the eyes of Java Dick's clientele actions which might otherwise arouse the suspicion that behind them was some ulterior motive. In any case it was the role that he had made up his mind to play. "Black Bob," he repeated. "I want to see Java Dick."

"Black Bob? Velly all light!" replied the voice instantly in pidgin English. "Catchee door quick!"

Where there had been no sign of a door before, one opened now, throwing a dull and momentary yellow glow out into the hallway. Bob Kingsley stepped, or, rather, staggered forward, and the door closed behind him.

A yard ahead of him, a fiber hanging swayed and rattled a little in the draft of air made by the opening and closing of the door. Through the hanging seeped the yellow glow of light; from behind it a faint, confused medley of sounds reached his ears—the low, constant chatter of voices that was like a prolonged murmur, the scuffling of bare or slippered feet, the stir of human movement; and to his nostrils came the sweet, sickish, unmistakable ordor of the only incense that was ever burned within a shrine consecrated to the God of Poppy.

His cap was cocked down a little over one eye, his shirt was loosened at the neck, and he smiled owlishly as he pushed the hanging aside and stared around him. A neat little bit of camouflage, this! The same old Chinaman was here who had been here five years ago—and was still engaged in ironing what was probably the same shirt! Just a small room—just the back of a laundry! The old Chinaman was wizened and looked half-witted. The same old Chinaman, however, was possessed of gifts that ranked him high in intellectual attainment, and peculiarly fitted him for the responsible office that he held. All the tongues of the East and not a few of Europe were fluently at his command; and it was Java Dick's boast that the man had never been known to forget a face or a name.

"Hello, Tao Lin, you priceless old bounder!" said Bob Kingsley effusively. "How's things?"

Tao Lin smiled blandly.

"Hello, Black Bob!" he answered affably. "It is long since you have been here. It is two years now."

Bob Kingsley leaned against the wall for support.

"Yes," he grinned; "but—hic!—at that, I see your iron hasn't had time to cool."

Tao Lin laughed.

"If the iron cooled it might not be so safe for one like Black Bob to come here," he answered.

"Oh, right-o!" said Bob Kingsley. "Just my bit of a joke, you know. Eh? What? Don't get to Singapore often. Last time was when I came here to Java's. How long did you say it was? Two years?"

Tao Lin nodded.

"My word!" muttered Bob Kingsley, sapiently. "Time—time——" He smiled helplessly.

"Flies," supplied Tao Lin pleasantly. "And tonight? The house is yours. What are the commands of Java Dick's friend? Will you play? Or perhaps just a drink? Or shall a pipe be made ready in a room above, where there will be none to see?"

"No pipe!" declared Bob Kingsley with inebriated emphasis. "Don't like 'em! I'll have a drink presently; but I want to talk to Java Dick. Got to see him!" His voice thickened. "Thash what I came for."

Tao Lin shook his head.

"Java Dick is out for a little while," he said. "Maybe half an hour, maybe an hour. Play a little till he comes back. There is a new game here."

"What kind of a game?" demanded Bob Kingsley.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

"I DO not remember the name given to it by the man who sold it to Java Dick," Tao Lin replied. "But there is a wheel that spins with a little ball, and there are many numbers, and—"

"You don't mean roulette, do you?"

"Yes," said Tao Lin. "That is the name."

Bob Kingsley chuckled—and hiccoughed.

"That's not new!" he stated derisively. "It's as old as—as Confucius!"

"It is new here," said Tao Lin. "Few of those who come here had ever seen it before; and now many play it." He jerked his head in the direction of a door at Bob Kingsley's left. "It is in the big room. Many are there now. If the game is known to you, so much more reason that you should play while you wait for Java Dick."

"I'll take a—hic!—shot at it," announced Bob Kingsley, as though he had arrived at a weighty decision. "But you tell Java Dick I got to see him—hic!—minute he comes in. Eh?"

"Yes," said Tao Lin. "I'll tell him."

Bob Kingsley started across the room—but he made progress now with exceeding instability. Tao Lin put down the iron, and ran to his assistance.

"Thash all right!" said Bob Kingsley with dignity. "Quite all right!"

And then inwardly Bob Kingsley grinned. Tao Lin evidently did not think so, for it was Tao Lin who helpfully opened the door to the "big room;" and here, thanks to Tao Lin's misgivings, Bob Kingsley found himself delivered over to the solicitous escort of a dirty and squalid-looking attendant in the shape of a young Chinaman.

Rising Waistline

After much scouting around, I have at least come to some conclusion about waistlines. This is about as definite as anything anyone can tell you, and it is: That waistlines are indeed shorter than they have been for a number of years. Raise it a few inches, at just about the top of the hip, and you will be about right.

Silk Hose Rinse

When washing silk, or artificial silk stockings, add a few drops of methylated spirit to the last water in which they are rinsed, and when ironed they will look like a new pair.

Junior Helps Lillian Identify the Transvanian

NO casual observer of Lillian Underwood would have noticed anything unusual in her aspect upon our return to the farmhouse with Junior repentant and a bit worried over what form of punishment I meant to give him for running away. But I who have worked with her so many years, and who know every inflection of her voice, every line of her face, realized that since her questioning of Junior she was suppressing some strong excitement.

She gave no word of explanation, however, until after we reached the farmhouse, and Katherine took Junior upstairs for a session with himself in his own room until lunch time. Katie hurried to her kitchen while Marion went back to her hammock under the larch tree. Lillian and I returned to the veranda, and finding no one there, Lillian spoke abruptly: "Don't give Junior anything but the most perfunctory punishment that you can reconcile with your conscience. He has done me yeoman service this day."

She laughed as she spoke, but I saw that there was truth behind the jest.

"I fancy you know that after the fright I've had over him, I haven't the heart to mete out anything drastic. Besides, he really didn't mean to disobey. He was trying to save his puppy from the heinous crime of cat-murder."

I had framed my answer carefully so that Lillian should not feel I expected any further account of Junior's service to her. But after laughing with me at the remembrance of his running away, she spoke tensely, almost sharply.

"I'm quite sure of that red-bearded man's identity now, thanks to your young son. Incidentally you ought to make a detective or a newspaper reporter of that boy. He's more observant than many an adult."

"He inherits that from the distaff side," I laughed, still determined to give her no inkling of the eager curiosity with which I was waiting for her next words.

"I'd have added that in another second if you could have waited," she retorted. "But both you and Dicky will have to look to your laurels when that young man grows up. He's a wonder! Besides your memory, he's got Dicky's powers of mimicry. I couldn't have obtained a more vivid impression of the red-headed man if I had talked to him."

She paused but I made no reply, knowing her idiosyncracies. A comment while she is unfolding any detail of her secret government work, to which I instinctively felt that this incident belonged, always turns her into what Dicky dubs "a double for the well-known clam with his shutting up proclivities."

"I'm sure he's a man whom I've run up against more than once in this vale of tears, and generally to my disadvantage," she went on. "Of course he's wearing a clever wig—his hair was—brown—if I'm not mistaken—when I've seen him before and he wore no beard then."

There was a hesitancy in her manner which struck me oddly. Lillian is not used to hesitancy in words.

"He's a comparatively harmless filbert," she went on, "nothing particularly vicious about him. But wherever there is trouble, especially where there is a gang trying to roll rocks in the paths of government wheels, you'll find this lad."

A sudden alarming thought struck me with the force of an actual physical blow and I started up from my chair.

"Then what does Dicky mean by hobnobbing with him as if he were and old comrade?" I asked.

BUGS BAER Says

HOUSTON, TEX., June 26.

RIGHT now Houston has a floating population of fifty thousand sinking delegates.

Smith has not changed his mind about liquor, He says it's still bad.

We have watched the opposing forces pull and tug around Houston and are now able to tell you the difference between a wet and dry. A wet is the man who picks up the check.

You are always sure of a good salt breeze in this town. If you don't get it off the Gulf you get it off Tom Heflin.

This convention will be less complicated now that Hoover has finally decided he is a Republican. He was a Democrat in 1920, and in 1924 he was a split delegate between the two parties.

The convention hall is the finest modern type of fireless cooker. The temperature is fourteen degrees above normal. Sixteen delegates fainted when they read that some fool had taken Nobile off a cake of ice.

The last Democratic convention lasted 21 days. It was during that famous affair that a frankfurter was voted as an alternate delegate.

His Honor the Jimmsy was given a great reception at the station. He has developed a body squeak from making bows.

Tex Rickard hooked on his private car at St. Louis. So did Ed Hurley of the Foreign Debt Commission. His Honor the Jimmsy, Tex and Hurley all made platform speeches at Poplar Bluffs from three different cars. Jimmsy won.

If this convention lasts 21 days the Democratic platform will be a last will and testament.

This is the final Democratic call for dinner.

For over a century the American farmer has been praying for rain and voting for relief. Once in a while he gets the rain.

Everybody in town knows where he is going, is thoroughly aware of current events, and is absolutely sure of what he is going to do, with one exception, and that exception is the instructed delegate.

There is only one bird dumber than an instructed delegate. And that's the lizard who handed out the instructions.

It is unfortunate that this is a convention and not a beauty contest. Otherwise, Jimmsy would be elected "Miss Universe." He tops Ray Stannard Baker by a nose. The next best dressed man is Damon Runyon in striped flannels.

Young, Pittsburgh, charging he had been seriously injured by the latter's automobile. The boy was struck while crossing East Pittsburgh street, Greensburg, January 29, 1926. He says he was dragged 150 feet and that both his legs were broken.

DROVE AWAY HIS RHEUMATIC PAINS

North Side Painter Uses Famous Ten Herbs With Amazing Results.

Glowing reports, in great numbers, are being received from men and women in this city and surrounding towns and countryside who have given the famous natural medicine, Ten Herbs, a fair trial and have thereby been freed of all their health troubles. Statements have been made by persons of all stations in life, all praising Ten Herbs, because of their deliverance from suffering caused by sluggish stomach, liver, kidneys, or bowels. Some of these men and women are so enthusiastic about Ten Herbs, and so grateful for the benefits it has bestowed on them, that they volunteer to tell the public about the unusual merits of this great herbal medicine.

MR. A. J. GILBERT

"Ten Herbs gave me amazing results—it drove all rheumatic pains and stiffness out of my body," was the statement of Mr. A. J. Gilbert, painter, living at 1932 Morris Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this popular preparation. "For five weeks I was confined in a hospital with inflammatory rheumatism; and, after being discharged, my condition became worse. I was getting weaker all the time, and could hardly walk.

"On the advice of friends, I began using Ten Herbs. It gave me complete relief from rheumatism, and increased my strength. My appetite has improved, and food digests better than it used to. My kidneys have been put in fine condition; and, in every way, I am feeling like a new man. It gives me pleasure to recommend Ten Herbs to the public."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

The above picture gives a glimpse "behind the scenes" in the fashionable salon of Frances Clyne, exclusive dressmaker.

In New York's great establishments of dress, the lovely underthings and hosiery worn by the models must always look new! Only Lux will keep them beautifully fresh and lovely, say New York's most famous dressmakers—Hickson, Hattie Carnegie, Tappé, Kurzman, Bergdorf-Goodman, Stein and Blaine, Milgrim, Jay-Thorpe, Frances Clyne, Bruck-Weiss brilliant Broadway success featuring the adorable Marilyn Miller (center), the sheer, long stockings worn by stars and choruses are kept like new with Lux. Every other musical show in New York also uses Lux to double the life of stockings. As the Shubert General Manager enthusiastically puts it—"We would use Lux if it cost $1.00 a box. Lux cuts stocking bills in half."

THIS ZIEGFELD SHOW USES LUX: IN "ROSALIE,"

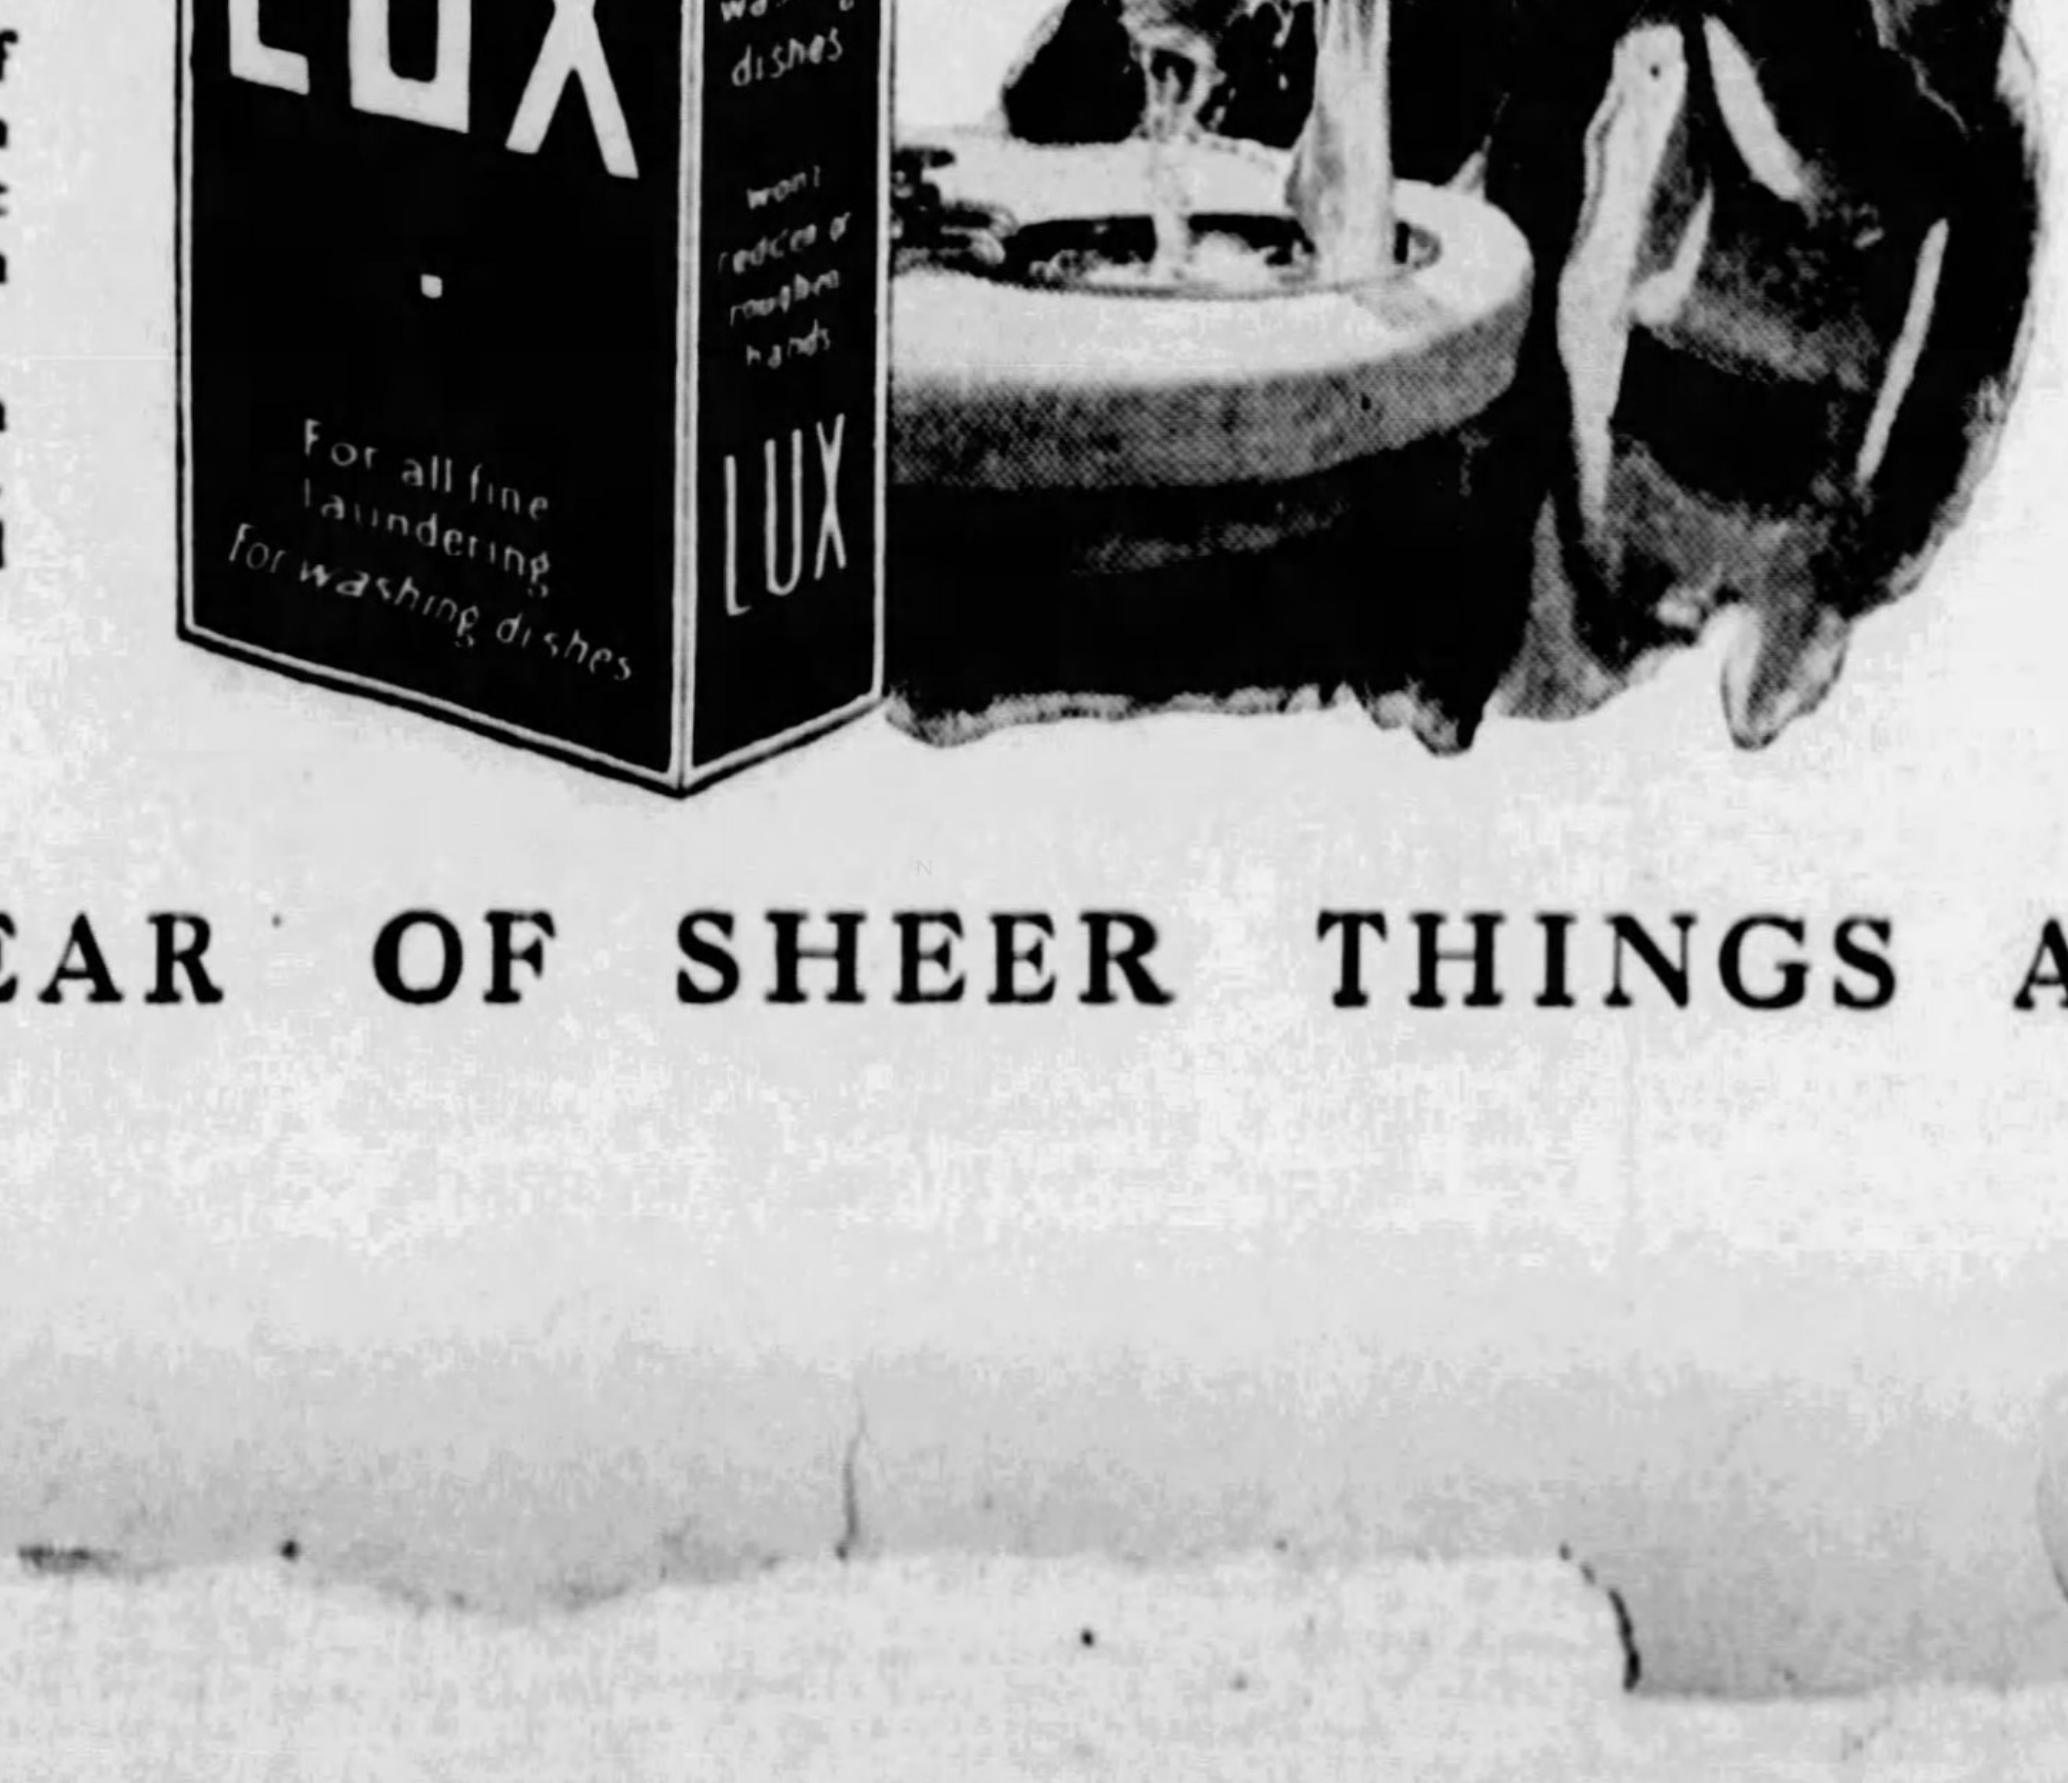
DEPARTMENT STORE BUYERS SELECT SMART CLOTHES:

An actual scene showing three buyers in the New York showroom of Jesse Woolf and Co., manufacturer of higher-priced dresses. Women buyers, such as these, are authorities on fabrics and clothes. Great stores entrust them with spending thousands of dollars for fashion apparel—send them frequently to Paris and New York.

For the first time, women buyers in 112 leading stores in cities from Boston to Los Angeles, have told their own secrets of clothes care. For their own precious things, 92 out of every 100 interviewed insist on safe Lux cleansing.

Women everywhere use Lux! In 8 out of 10 representative homes in cities from coast to coast, investigations show, Lux is used. To keep modern clothes like new so much longer!



LUX IS SO PURE that the famous New York Maternity Center uses Lux in cleansing all baby things, so that there can be no risk of irritating the baby's tender skin.

This gives vivid proof of the purity of Lux and the great care with which it is made. For organizations such as the Maternity Center have submitted Lux to most rigid analysis and tests before choosing it officially. No wonder Lux never harms delicate colors or fine fabrics.

SPORT COMMENT

Giants Get Lucky Financial Break When Roush Jumps—Benton Hurls His Fifteenth Complete Game—Pipgras Leads in Victories With 13—Much Discussed New Tennis Stroke Is Demonstrated.

FROM still another baseball source there must now come the admission that there really is a Santa Claus after all.

Eddie Roush

More than a week ago the New York National League Club asked waivers on their famous center fielder, Eddie Roush.

The object was to have some club claim him and take him off New York's hands, so that the Giant owners would be relieved of the burden of paying Roush's heavy salary under a contract that will not expire until the end of the 1929 season.

But nobody bit. That big salary scared away clubs that would have been glad to take on Roush at reasonable figures. They could not see with a business eye anything to be gained by assuming the contract of a player who is 35 years old and has hit only .244 up-to-date this year.

HOWEVER, just when all the other clubs in the two big leagues had waived and it looked as if the Giant management would be forced to keep him, Eddie himself suddenly did the New York club a kindly act by flaring up Saturday and leaving the team.

See the result? That act made it possible for Giant bosses to suspend Roush without pay so that for the time being his $20,000 salary stopped. The rules say that a club may suspend a player for insubordination or other misconduct, and during the period of suspension the player shall be ineligible to play with any other club.

THAT'S what the New York club did right away and it was announced that Roush had been suspended indefinitely. This would seem to give the Gotham magnates the right to shut off Roush's salary for as long as they pleased, but fortunately for the ball players some of the club owners were fair enough to have incorporated in the major league rules a regulation that saves the athletes from being dealt with unjustly without hearing.

THIS rule provides that a player suspended by a club or league for a term longer than 10 days shall have the right of appeal to the Commissioner, who is given authority to order his reinstatement and afford him adequate redress if he holds that the banishment is excessive or not merited.

Inasmuch as Roush deserted his team he would not appear to have a very strong case, but at least he will be entitled to a hearing early next week and if he wants to play then he may be able to induce Commissioner Landis to order his reinstatement.

Larry Benton

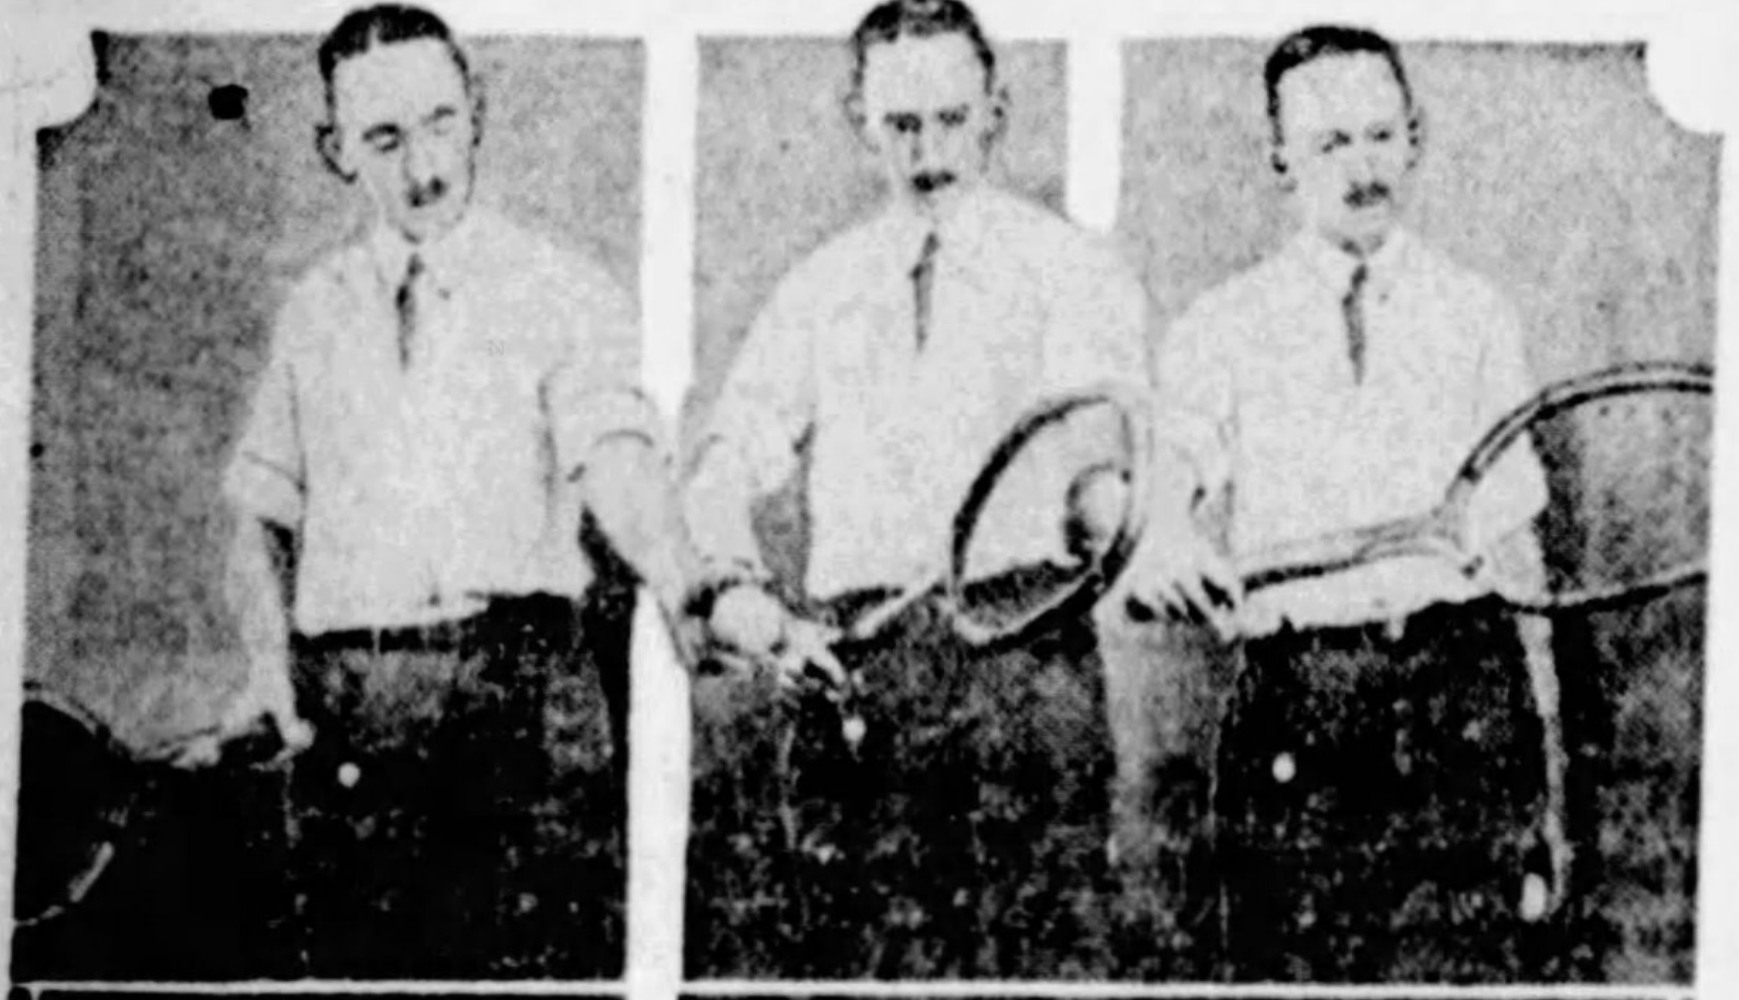
ONWARD Larry Benton goes his way. Every other club in the National League has tried to stop the New York flinger, but not only have they failed to beat him, but they have not once been able to keep him from pitching the full distance.

IN beating the Phillies in the first game of yesterday's double-header in Baker's soup bowl, Benton went the full distance for the fifteenth successive time this season. He has won 12 games and lost only three and has beaten every other club in the league at least once. In his 15 games Benton has pitched a total of 134 2-3 innings.

George Pipgras of the Yankees still heads the parade in number of games won, with 13 victories to his credit, against only two defeats. He, like Benton, has beaten every other club in his league.

SINCE the recent announcement that lawn tennis was going to be revolutionized by a stroke invented by Dwight Douglass, tennis professional, and that even Bill Tilden and others high in American net circles had approved and adopted it (which was a lot of publicity for one day), the average tennis follower has been eager to learn something more about the stroke.

Well, here's his first opportunity. The Sun-Telegraph is able to present a series of pictures in which Mr. Douglass demonstrates his new method for obtaining speed, without control. Note the different movements of racquet, ball and player's arm and wrist:



AT the left, in the above illustrations, is shown the outward swing of the racket before striking the ball. In the center is shown the result of the racquet's being hooked around the ball with a curving motion. At the right the stroke is shown completed. Observe the bending of the wrist at the end of the stroke.

According to the Douglass theory the ball is hooked near the top of the racket, and instead of sliding away from the throat off the top of the racquet the method is reversed, the ball moving in the opposite direction, toward the throat.

FOLLOWING the big swimming tryouts at Detroit Friday and Saturday, in which Paul Wyatt and Harry Galney placed second in their events, Johnny Weismuller said that all he would have to do to win in the Olympic games would be to hand another defeat to George Kojak and Walter Laufer, his strongest rivals for three-straight honors, whom he had just trimmed.

"To win the Olympic title," Weismuller is quoted, "all I have to do is beat those fellows again, and I should do that barring accidents.

"America is going to place one, two, three in the 100-meter event for there are no European swimmers who can keep up with Kojac and Laufer.

CHAMPIONS

Luke Conley's Valley Tigers, of Lawrenceville, a few of the stars of which team appear herewith, won the mushball championship of the Greater Pittsburgh district last year in a competition in which 76 teams participated. The Conleys were undefeated, largely due to the fine pitching of Ray Hutter and Joseph Panion. This season the Tigers are leading the West Penn League, the best mushball circuit in the Pittsburgh district.

IT'S A BIG BALL, BUT EASY TO MISS

The mushball is much larger than the baseball and it comes riding up to the plate as big as a balloon, but, when it is delivered with the proper amount of speed and deception, it is easy to miss, as illustrated in this picture of the Pupich brothers at the plate. They constitute the "Waner act" of mushball, a sport, by the way, which is steadily gaining in vogue around these parts, many of the games attracting crowds of spectators that run into the thousands. The Pupich brothers are stars of the Conley Valley Tigers. Boyce Pupich, the pepper box of the team, is batting .420 in the West Penn League, while Stako, the best catcher in the circuit, is hitting at a .560 clip.

IT'S A GIFT

That is, pitching in mushball is more or less a gift. The pitcher stands only 12 yards from the plate and must throw the ball in underhand fashion to the batter. Here Joseph Panion, one of the stars of the champion Valley Tigers, shows how it's done. Ray Hutter, the other star pitcher of the Tigers, is a city fireman.

TIERNEY SPIKES RUMOR

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(INS.)—A report that Tex Rickard and the Madison Square Garden Corporation had bought the New York Giants was denied today by James J. Tierney, secretary of the club.

"It sounds like a revival of an old story that we have denied several times," he said.

TEX NAMED BUYER

NEW YORK, June 26.—According to a story in the Daily Mirror today, announcement will be made in a few days of the sale of the New York National League baseball club to the Madison Square Garden Corporation. Tex Rickard is named as the man who put over the deal. John McGraw is to be retained as manager and an effort will be made to dispose of the Polo Grounds and rent the Yankee Stadium for the club's home games, the story adds.

CAN'T you just hear Johnny Farrell guffawing to himself as he contemplates his victory in the National Open golf tournament and saying:

"That fellow Keck, now, in Pittsburgh. Didn't I show him up, though? Haw, haw, haw!" And a few more haw-haws for good measure.

For, in Saturday's column, there appeared the following:

"I had a sort of a hunch that this might be Johnny Farrell's year in the National Open, but it doesn't appear to be. Johnny is a sort of contradictory cuss. Year after year he goes his way, cleaning up one big tournament after another and maintaining his position up there among Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and the other topnotch pros, but he has yet to win a National Open. One of these seasons he'll annex that honor, too; perhaps the

Marion Turpie Wins Medal at Minneapolis

MINNEAPOLIS, June 26.—(AP.)—Marion Turpie, the sturdy little Scotch lass from New Orleans, who holds the Southern championship, showed the way to a field of stars in the 18-hole qualifying round of the women's trans-Missisipi golf tournament at the Minikahda Club yesterday by shooting a sizzling 84, only one stroke over women's par, to capture medal honors.

She led her nearest rival, Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, North and South champion, by four strokes. Miriam Burns Horn of Kansas City, defending champion and holder of the national title, finished third with 91.

SOCCER CHAMPIONS GET LEAGUE TROPHIES

The final official act of the 1927 soccer season was performed last evening at the Hotel Henry, when the American, International and District Soccer League trophies were awarded to the league winners.

Manager Ernest Balsarini accepted the American League trophy for Heidelberg, Alex McClurg of the Pittsburgh Rovers the District League trophy, and Fred Finn the International League trophy for the McKeesport National Tube team.

About 75 players, managers and officials sat at the banquet table. W. S. Haddock was toastmaster and Tom Birks, Harry Fairfield, John Watson, Robert Brown, Carl Meisenberg, Pat Donohoe and Tom Edwards addressed the gathering.

CORSAIRS BANK ON FUSSELL, GRIMES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, June 26.—The only wet sector in the National League yesterday, Chicaogo, will see two Heydler circuit fights this afternoon, weather permitting. Owing to the postponement of yesterday the Pirates and Cubs will stage a bargain matinee for the fans today, the first game to begin at 1:30 Chicago daylight savings time.

Fred Fussell, clever left-hander from Wichita Falls, and the eminent horseman from Minerva—Burleigh Grimes, will be on the slab to heckle the Bruins. Inasmuch as Joe McCarthy is likely to throw eight righthand batters at Fussell, fears for the southpaw's safety are in order, but in view of the wobbly condition of some of his star righthanders, Donie Bush has to take chances. In all events Fred and Burleigh are all set to table with Bears, who, in turn, are expected to counter with a southpaw and a righthander. Percy Jones and Sheriff Blake are due to twirl for the McCarthy clan.

WRIGHT TO BE BACK

Glen Wright will be back at his short field position. Daredevil Dick Bartell is a great lad to have around for emergencies, but Dick, as yet has no punch at the plate to compare with the athlete who leads the club in paddling in tallies—and the boy who can sock in the runs is needed by all clubs.

While the Pirates and Cubs rested they saw the high-flying Redbirds breeze along at the expense of the cracked Reds. Bill McKechnie and Rabbit Maranville doubtless are enjoying the ride in front of the pack, and they are getting out too far to be comfortable.

ROBINS ADVANCE

From out of the Flatbush comes a new threat, although the latest rush of the Dodgers may not be taken seriously in some quarters.

The poor Reds have not recovered from the vital blow sustained in Philadelphia as they finished up their Eastern trip. The Rhinelanders were sailing along like a real team until they reached the Baker bowl. That's a port of lost hopes for many teams. The Reds dropped three in a row and since then have floundered about like drunken sailors. They lost three out of four to the Pirates and then dropped a pair to the Cards. Shed a tear for Jack, boys—he was a good fellow when he had it.

Baur Leads O'Loughlin

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

FOR the sixth time in the past eight days, rain yesterday played havoc with competition in the fortieth annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships in progress under the auspices of the P. A. A. on the courts of the Pittsburgh Golf Club. A torrential shower just prior to 4 o'clock caught the Byron Baur-John O'Loughlin lower semi-final tilt during the rest period and soaked the already moist turf to such an extent that further combat was out of the question.

Baur, Erie youth and defending champion, was leading his Winged Head opponent, two sets to one, when hostilities were called off. O'Loughlin had copped a game of the contest on Sunday, the milling being barely under way then ere a deluge similar to that of yesterday occasioned postponement. The Erie entrant, however, opened strongly upon resumption of the tussle to garner four consecutive games before O'Loughlin could settle into wonted accuracy with his sweeping drives to enemy backhand. Baur here faltered to drop two games, but he sustained service thereafter to annex the set, 6-4.

O'LOUGHLIN RALLIES

O'Loughlin stepped out impressively in bracket two to reel off five games in a row, but lapsed at this juncture and could take but two points in the next three games. He was hitting past the lines and encountering grave difficulty because of his frequent outs. He was down at 15-40 on his own service in the ninth game, but forced matters at the net to grab off game and set, 6-3, after two deuces.

The first 11 games of session three followed delivery, Baur serving first and clinging to a slight edge. Byron was down at 15-40 in game five, but hostile errors enabled him to pull out successfully. He was again in trouble in game 11, when O'Loughlin had four chances to tally game point, only to lose out after five deuces. John led at 30-love in game 12. He outed for 30-15 and Baur volleyed for placement for 30-all. A clean passing shot off backhand gave Baur the advantage at 30-40, and it was game and set, 7-5, as O'Loughlin outed for the 'steenth time.

RESUME FRAY TODAY

O'Loughlin and Baur took up the cudgel again at 1 p. m. today. The survivor will battle Billy O'Loughlin, diminutive Shady Side Academy star, in the final for the crown.

The women's final, involving Elizabeth Labarthe, clever Californian, with Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, Alliance luminary, was scheduled for today, with men's doubles being on the card for the entire afternoon.

TERRY LINGO STOPS WELCH IN FIRST ROUND

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 26.—Terrible Terry Lingo, 135-pounder of Pittsburgh, scored the most impressive ring victory of his career here last night when he kayoed Teddy Welch, the veteran McKeesport ringster, in the first round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

It was a round packed with dynamite. They squared off and Lingo landed the first blow and a flock of punches followed, Welch going down under a fusillade of rapier-like rights and lefts. He took the count of eight. Welch was on the canvas twice more and courageously crawled to his feet to take the K. O. wallop just as the first round was nearing a close. The bell, however, did not save him.

Espinosa Leads Field

KANSAS CITY, June 26.—(AP.)—Stroking on untroubled by gallerites who swarmed other fairways to see the champions dub their way along, Al Espinosa stole a march on his more illustrious golfing mates in the Mid-America open golf tournament at Lakewood yesterday and was in prime position today to annex the $1,500 first prize.

Six strokes ahead of the field, following a 145-yard ace and a trio of birdies, the little Spaniard from Chicago did not even need par golf on the final 36 holes today to sweep the field.

His score of 142 was two under par for the rough and difficult course, and six strokes below Leo Diegel, of White Plains, N. Y., in second place.

Unruffled by the remodeled greens which brought loud wails from several stars, Espinosa cleaved four from par yesterday, with a card of 33-35 to add to his 74 in the initial round.

Far behind and almost ready to concede defeat, were Johnny Farrell, national open champion, trying the impossible of playing four continuous scorching days of 36-hole tournament golf; Walter Hagen, the British open champion, again struggling against the British ace, Archie Compston, and Gene Sarazen, runner-up in the British open.

Farrell, who tied Bobby Jones in the national open at Chicago Saturday, then won the title in a 36-hole play-off Sunday, had 153 after playing 36 holes to catch up with the field. Hagen, paired with Compston, had slipped to 155, while Gene was out of the money with 39-42-81—163, 19 strokes above par.

changed his tactics for last night's meeting, refraining from trying to box with his clever opponent and forcing a hot fighting pace throughout. Levinsky won only one round, the second, in which he countered heavily to the body to ward off Rocco's persistent attack, and held his own in the fourth. All of the other sessions went to Rocco, who several times made hard-swinging bids for a knockout victory.

Henry Firpo, Louisville middleweight, scored a technical knockout victory over Joe Midway of New Castle in the semi-final, put on, along with the other six-round bout, after the main event, which was moved ahead because of a threat of rain. Midway was down nine times, and eight times took the count of nine on one knee before the referee intervened.

Johnny Slate, of New Castle, was taking a beating from Romeo Pacelli, New Castle junior-lightweight, and his seconds tossed in the towel after he had been floored for a count of nine in the fourth round.

Tom Harris, of Pittsburgh, making his professional debut, defeated Henry Slate, New Castle welterweight, in four rounds, and Terry McManus, Lawrenceville flyweight, easily outboxed Young Pansy, of Midland, in the four-round opener.

Al Grayber refereed all of the bouts and Jock Simco and Eddie Kennedy were the judges. Referee Joe Keally was a ringsider. The announcer worked in full dress and many women attended. A fuse blew out and placed the arena in utter darkness for a few moments just before the last event, and, in the main bout, first Rocco and then Levinsky burst a glove, causing time to be taken out until new mitts could be adjusted, but these were the only untoward incidents of the evening and the show on the whole was handled in big league fashion. The new arena, bowlshaped, is one of the finest of its size in the country for an outdoor place, affording everybody a close and unobstructed view of the fighting. Promoter Jolly plans to stage shows every two weeks.

Sun-Tele Tourney Draws

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

THAT the entry list being compiled for the West Penn junior golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst trophy, scheduled for the Schenley Park course, Thursday, July 12, is a cosmopolitan one is easily shown by the large number of boys from all sections of Western Pennsylvania enrolling in the event.

Judging by the number of entries received to date, the field will be one of the largest ever compiled for a tournament of its kind in the country. Not only are juniors and sub-juniors from the Greater Pittsburgh District interested in the first annual Sun-Tele tournament, but youngsters from the outlying districts are filing their entries in large numbers.

The tournament is open to all amateur golfers in the tri-state district under the age of 18 years who are not attending an institution of learning above high school grades. The tournament will be an 18-hole medal play event in junior and sub-junior classes.

The entry list to date is well over the 200 mark and unless all signs fail the field will number approximately 400 when the first pair of golfers tee off at Schenley on July 12. Officials of the Schenley course have announced that the municipal links will be in excellent shape for the Sun-Tele tournament and predict some fine scores from the youngsters, many of whom are busily engaged polishing up their game.

There still is plenty of time to enroll in The Sun-Tele tournament. An entry blank will be found on this page. Fill it out according to instructions and mail it to the Golf Tournament Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

TILDEN, LOTT ADVANCE

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 26.—(AP.)—William T. Tilden and George Lott, of the United States Davis Cup tennis team, who have yet to lose a set in the English championship tournament, scored easily today in the second round of play.

After Tilden had defeated H. C. Fisher, young Oxford University student from Burma, by scores of 6-1, 6-3, 6-1, Lott downed H. K. Laster, captain of the Cambridge University team last year, by 6-1, 7-5, 7-5.

Another favorite to win today was Baron H. L. De Morpurgo, Italian ace, who downed D. H. Williams, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

Rain interrupted play shortly after it started, but the shower soon ceased.

Gerald L. Patterson, Australian veteran, displayed excellent form in disposing of the German, Dr. H. Kleinschroth, in straight sets, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1.

The defending champion, Henri Cochet of France, taking matters rather easily, at first, was extended in the final set to defeat the Australian, Hopman, 6-1, 6-4, 8-6.

The Argentine forces broke even. Ronald Boyd eliminated the Englishman, Pitt, 6-3, 6-3, 7-5, but his countryman, W. Robson, was put out by Capt. C. H. D. O'Gallaghan, Irish star, 7-5, 6-3, 1-6, 6-4.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

"AMERICA also will take the chief places in the back-stroke with Kojac and Laufer, the 400-meter free with possibly myself and Buster Crabbe and the relay.

"The only events our team may not win will be the breast stroke and the 1,500-meter free style. Eric Rademacher, of Germany, still is the greatest breast stroke artist in the world and he will have his chief competition from other Germans. Boy Charlton, of Australia, and Arne Borg, of Sweden, look best in the 1,500-meter, though Crabbe has a chance."

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

same year he fails to win the best dressed golfer prize."

SOMEBODY must have done me a dirty trick and tipped off Farrell about those remarks. For he immediately tightened up his game and came from behind to make up seven strokes on Bobby Jones in the last two rounds and tie him for the championship, and then he defeated the greatest amateur player in the game in the playoff Sunday.

Who would have guessed that any bloke seven strokes behind the great Jones with only 36 holes to play would do a thing of that sort? With only 18 holes to go, Farrell still was five strokes back, but he shot his best round of the tournament while Bobby was slipping and taking a 77.

Anyway, congratulations for Farrell are in order, even if he did make a rummy out of me. At least I have the consolation of having thought in advance that he had a chance to cop.

BUCK CROUSE, the former local middleweight star, was waxing reminiscent yesterday. He had been reading the details of the bout in which Jimmy McLarnin knocked out Phil McGraw in the first round in New York the other night and they reminded him of a bout in which he himself participated, along about 1912, when he was one of the real stars of the fistic arenas.

"Do you know," Buck said, "I think that if McGraw had got through that first round he would have come back, despite his four knockdowns, and beaten McLarnin? I'll tell you why. I had an almost similar bout with Frank Loughrey in Boston years ago in which I won by a technical knockout in the first round. Loughrey never had been stopped and they told me I had a tough customer on my hands. I went winging for him from the first bell and clipped him cleanly on the chin and floored him. He kept getting up and going down and I was just about spent when the referee stepped between us and stopped it. If the bell had rung and Loughrey had been able to come up for the second round, I fear he would have been in much better condition than I, despite the punishment he had taken. I imagine the circumstances must have been the same in the McLarnin-McGraw fight."

JAMES (RED) MASON, who has been vacationing at Cape May, N. J., sends warning that he'll be back home the latter part of this week claiming some more championships for his fighters. That's one good thing about James the Red. He always lets you know in advance when he is approaching on horseback or otherwise. Incidentally, in his letter, he calls attention to the fact that his Cuddy DeMarco has won his last 14 (count 'em) fights and is likely to be rematched at Paterson, N. J., with Johnny Shupack of that town, whom he recently defeated at Erie. Shupack is a good card in New Jersey and attracts big gates in Paterson and Newark.

GENE'S ROYAL NOSE SCRATCHED IN BOUT

SPECULATOR, N. Y., June 26.—(INS.)—Gene Tunney continued his training for the Tom Heeney fight in Yankee Stadium, July 26, today with a scratch on his nose, administered by Billy Vidabeck, light-heavyweight sparring partner.

It is not likely that the cut will cause any trouble, but it is evidence that Tunney is not ducking effectively.

Tunney will work out today with Harold Mays, New Jersey heavyweight, and a new addition to the sparring staff.

BRAVES GET FREIGAU

BOSTON, June 26.—(INS.)—Howard Freigau, infielder, who has been in turn a Cardinal, a Cub and a Robin, yesterday got his swing at being a Brave when Uncle Wilbert sold him to Manager Rogers Hornsby at the waiver price. Freigau was drafted by the Robins last winter from the Kansas City Blues, with whom he was playing after his first journey to the majors.

GOLF TOURNEYS ON

Two golf tournaments are being played in the Pittsburgh district today. The Sons of the American Revolution are staging an 18-hole medal play contest at Edgewood and the Hotel and Restaurant Men's Association has an 18-hole medal play match under handicaps in progress at the Valley Heights Club.

LLOYD HAHN TO RETIRE

BOSTON, June 26. — (AP.) — Lloyd Hahn, one of America's brightest track stars, said today that he would quit running after the Olympic games. "It will not be one of those stage farewells," he explained, "for I have made up my mind this time to settle down to business."

CROOKSTONS WIN AGAIN

The Crookstons of Stanton Heights, J. B. Crookston and his son J. W., gave the seventh annual West Penn fathers and sons golf tournament a decidedly Crookston complex at the Allegheny Country Club yesterday when they scored 75-2—73 to win the title for the third straight year. The Burkes of Allegheny, J. F. and J. S., and the Nichols of Alcoma, William H. and Thomas N., tied for second honors at net 76.

The second half of the competition for the Grogan Cup, between the Highland and Shannopin clubs, will be played at Shannopin tomorrow afternoon. Forty foursomes are involved in the play.

Should We Rest or Play On Vacation? Doctor's View

By B. C. Forbes

HOW are you going to spend your vacation?

One doctor whose career has brought him into close contact with many business men tells me that too many men who work strenuously devote their vacation-time to active sports whereas they should rest.

For employes and others who do routine work not calling for physical exertion, a complete change of scene is recommended.

I'M tempted to point out that the principal requisite for a successful vacation for everybody is full pay.

I've never known of an executive to stop his own salary when he took a regular vacation. And we know that the universal rule is for minor salaried people to get paid.

Who will deny that the rank and file of workers need vacation money just as much as any class of employes?

Happily, some progress is being made in converting employers to his idea of granting their workers a vacation with full pay.

IN Detroit the other day an automobile executive told me with pride that he hadn't taken a vacation in years. "My work gives me all the fun I need," he declared. He added that, in this respect, he shares the views and follows the practice of A. P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors.

"You'll soon have more money than you can ever use," I remarked. "What do you propose to do when you get older?"

"Work—nothing but work," he replied emphatically.

"Suppose your capacity for work, because of the swift pace you maintain, should seriously decrease, you wouldn't be able to hold your own in the game, and then what would you propose doing?" I asked.

"I never thought of that," he confessed. After pondering awhile, he went on: "One thing sure is that for years I have forgotten how to play. I haven't any interest in life—outside my family—except my work. Probably they would keep me on here even though I wasn't up to scratch, but I don't know how I would care for that idea."

THAT conversation brought to my mind one old gentleman who also totally neglected everything but his daily business activities. Increasing years have rendered him unfit for the responsibilities he used to handle. But, having the authority, he still insists upon working. How to placate him, how to avoid disillusioning him, how to override his ow impaired judgment without ortally offending him has beme a pathetic problem.

f this man had been in the bit of taking vacations and had rned how to enjoy relaxation, probably would now be much pier than he is. Notwithstandg all the kindly consideration shown him, he senses that he can no longer keep up with the procession and that he really should not attempt to do so. But where else can he go, what else can he do?

EACH of us has to reason out for himself just what kind of vacation is most helpful. The primary object of a vacation is, of course, to fit us better for our duties. A vacation should mean recreation, not dissipation. The doctor who declares that most of us exert ourselves overmuch and rest too little probably is right, for Americans admittedly are a restless people. Would it not be nearer the truth to say that the ideal vacation, in the view of the majority of Americans, is a trip to Europe or elsewhere in which every moment of every day and every evening is crowded with adventure?

Europeans laugh at us for our strenuosity when pleasure-bent. They take things more leisurely, more placidly, perhaps because their nations are older.

MY observation convinces me that any individual or family financially able to do so should go in for vacations. The rich man financially able to do so should go in for vacations. The rich man who brags, "I never take a vacation," is, in my humble opinion short-sighted. Work is important, tremendously important. But the good Lord surely did not intend us to know nothing all through life but work, work, work. We have social instincts. And there is nothing equal to respite from work and a change of environment and faces to enable us to exercise these social instincts. Our lives are narrow enough at the best. Why make them still more narrow by never breaking away from the daily rut?

HIGHER MONEY HALTS STOCK ADVANCE

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Seven per cent call money made its appearance again in Wall street today and the stock market, which had been heading upward, backed up, but did not break as it did when the high rate first made its appearance three weeks ago. Early gains of 1 to 3 points in the standard industrials and 5 to nearly 14 points in a few rails and specialties were cut down.

Banks called about $30,000,000 in loans by early afternoon, presumably to strengthen reserves in anticipation of the comptroller of currency's bank call June 30 and the heavy mid-year settlements. Expectations that about $600,000,000 will be distributed during July in the form of dividend and interest payments, and provide a backlog of investment buying, had a tendency to keep selling in check.

Raising of the Anaconda Copper Company's annual dividend from $3 to $4 started a fresh outburst of buying in the copper shares. Motors were mixed. Renewed weakness cropped out in the rubber group on reports that the leading companies had been forced to write off huge inventory losses. U. S. Rubber common and first preferred and Fisk Rubber sank to new low levels for the year, or longer. Selling pressure also was effective against the Continental Baking issues, American Linseed, New York Dock and Tobacco Products.

National Tea scored nearly 14 points and Delaware and Hudson 12½. Indian Refining preferred advanced 5 points to a new peak at 165, against the year's low of 101. American Machine and Foundry, Wright Aeronautical, Curtiss, Allied Chemical and St. Louis Southwestern also were in good demand.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Reverses Trend.

There was a conspicuous change in the general complexion of the stock market today, the first Tuesday on which prices have failed to recede since the present corrective movement got under way more than a month ago. Reason for the selling on Tuesdays heretofore has been that that day's business is the last to figure in the Federal Reserve loan reports issued on Thursdays. Up to last Thursday's report the loan reduction had amounted to $293,000,000, a figure well below what the Reserve Board was considered to have in prospect when it began several weeks ago to tighten credit for the purpose of forcing a reduction. The change in market tone today, therefore, elicited considerable comment in trading circles. One reason for the strength today was that stock market interests are anticipating a big demand for investment issues after July 1 interest and dividend payments have been made and it was assumed that traders were buying stocks in anticipation of this demand. Estimates place the reported payments due at the end of the month at around $600,000,000, but payment on unlisted stocks and bonds, municipal obligations, etc., may run the total close to $1,000,000,000. Most of this money will eventually find its way back in the securities markets and it is not stock market history that a big reinvestment demand finds the market unprepared.

Money at 7 Per Cent Again.

Thursday's loan report will give some inkling as to how long the present changed market tone may be expected to endure. A reduction of more than $100,000,000 for the week will probably be sufficient to allow maintenance of strong markets until the reinvestment demand is satisfied. This means probably firm markets to the middle of July, at least. After that, the situation will probably depend upon how much of the June correction was nullified by an advance in the intervening period. Hard money rates are expected between now and the first of the month and while a 7 per cent call money rate was posted today, anything above that is regarded as improbable, though not impossible. Banks called $25,000,000 loans around noon. Call money reached 7 per cent in the early stages of the recent reaction and the return to that figure is not likely to frighten the Street out of reason. Anything above 7, however, would probably cause a quick resumption of the selling movement. Easy money, in the sense the Street has come to regard it over the past two years, is not to be expected in the [illegible] however, as crop moving demands are just ahead and industry will require increasing accommodation in preparation for holiday operations.

Anaconda Raises Dividend.

The Anaconda Copper Company today placed its stock on a $4 annual dividend basis by declaration of a quarterly payment of $1 a share. The former rate was 75 cents quarterly, or $3 a year. This action confirms rumors heard in trading circles for several months. The statistical position of the copper industry has been improving for several months and prices of the metal at present, 14⅝ cents domestic and 15 cents foreign, represent an average of about a full cent a pound over last year's average. Anaconda is a completely rounded organization, handling its output from the mine to the dealers' shelves through its ownership of American Brass Company, largest of the finished product manufacturers. Through ownership of the Chile Copper Company, Anaconda has control of the largest known body of ore in the world and as Chile's production cost but slightly over 8 cents a pound, the outlook under present conditions is unusually favorable. Bulls on Anaconda have been staunch in their contention that the stock will see much higher prices later on, and predict that dividends will eventually be $6 a year and the market price of the shares above the 100 mark.

West Rail Mills at 80 Per Cent.

Steel ingot output has dropped to 80 per cent of capacity in the west. No change in schedules is anticipated this week, but further curtailment is looked for in July. Steel rail mills are at about 80 per cent. Sheet mills of Inland Steel will be down all next week, due to Independence Day. Other operations will not be affected much by the holiday.

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

DECLINING stock market prices have called an abrupt halt to the distribution of new securities. Practically all of the bond houses find themselves with heavy inventories of recent issues which have not been moved into the hands of investors. Several new offerings which were to have been made last week have been deferred until a better public reception can be expected. Many underwriting houses have had difficulty in maintaining a steady market in their recent issues. The delay in public distribution has kept the bank borrowings of bond houses at a high level and has contributed to some extent to the present stringency in the money market.

IN discussing the general business outlook, a tone of distinct optimism about the outlook for this fall is frequently expressed. The belief is quite general that certain interests have been holding back some of their buying with the intention of placing a large volume of orders shortly before the presidential elections so that industrial conditions will be favorable to the Republican party.

THE surprising thing about this belief is that, although it is so widespread, there is a distinct vagueness about just who these men are who are altering the normal course of their business in order to boost the Hoover candidacy. Judging from the hand to mouth buying policy into which industry has drifted, and which is not likely to be changed, there are few industrial companies that would take such action. Manufacturers of today do not carry large inventories. They do not buy huge stocks of raw materials. Most of them do not buy until they have orders for the finished products. An executive of one steel company recently said, "Most of our customers buy only what they need tomorrow and they expect shipment yesterday." There will be no wave of industrial buying for any election charitable purposes. Of course there is a seasonal improvement usually shown in business in the fall and this will tend to increase industrial activity.

THERE are, however, two sources at which business may have been saved for pre-election release. It is possible that some building construction may have been delayed for placing between now and November. But again the individual case where this is being done is hard to find. The railroads are most likely to contribute to fall business. They have not been in the market for cars and locomotives in any appreciable quantities for over three years. They did buy rolling stock heavily in 1924. The efficiency of railroad operation has been so greatly increased that less equipment is necessary than in the past, but after such a dearth of buying many of them may be in need of new facilities.

IF such a railroad buying movement does take place the Pittsburgh district will benefit in a very large way. The car building shops will obviously be helped. The steel mills and specialty producers such as Westinghouse Air Brake will supply materials. If activity is increased in these industries, retail merchandising and hundreds of other activities will feel the stimulus of greater payrolls.

THE export business of motion picture producers is being threatened from a new source. Growing antagonism to American pictures in many of the European countries has not had serious results because of the simple fact that better pictures are made here than are produced abroad. A few foreign producers equal and occasionally exceed the American product in quality but these do not produce enough pictures to supply the markets of their various countries. Legislation aimed at American producers has created an artificial market for foreign films in their own countries. But the distribution of American films is not confined to one or two nations. It is world wide. Legislation in one or two places has little effect on the grand total.

THE thing that really threatens is the talking film. If the talkie succeeds in surplanting the silent pictures, an eventuality which many doubt, American films will no longer sell abroad. At present it is easy to rewrite the titles in any desired language, but there is no way to translate a talkie. The new development may give foreign producers monopolies of their own markets. But this will only happen if the talkie sends the old movie entirely into li[illegible]o and there are many who think that movies should be seen and not heard.

SALES VOLUME DECLINES

Prices were unchanged in the early session of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today with the volume of business showing a marked decrease and most of the transactions being for odd lots, or blocks of less than 100 shares of the various stocks.

Armstrong Cork, which suffered a 2-point decline in a thin market yesterday, was handled unchanged at 57½ on the opening today. The drop in Armstrong has so far failed to bring out much stock and there appears to be little apprehension on the part of holders as the company's outlook. It is regarded as well able to hold its own in the field and while competition in the floor covering field is severe, the Armstrong products have a dependable following and the company's output is well diversified. The stock carries a regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents a share and at the last meeting an extra of 12½ cents was declared.

Lone Star Gas quiet but steady, ranging around the 52 level at which it closed last night. Turnover in the issue was comparatively light. Arkansas was firm also.

A few odd lots of Joseph Horne changed hands at 40, the price at which the stock has been pegged for the greater part of the month.

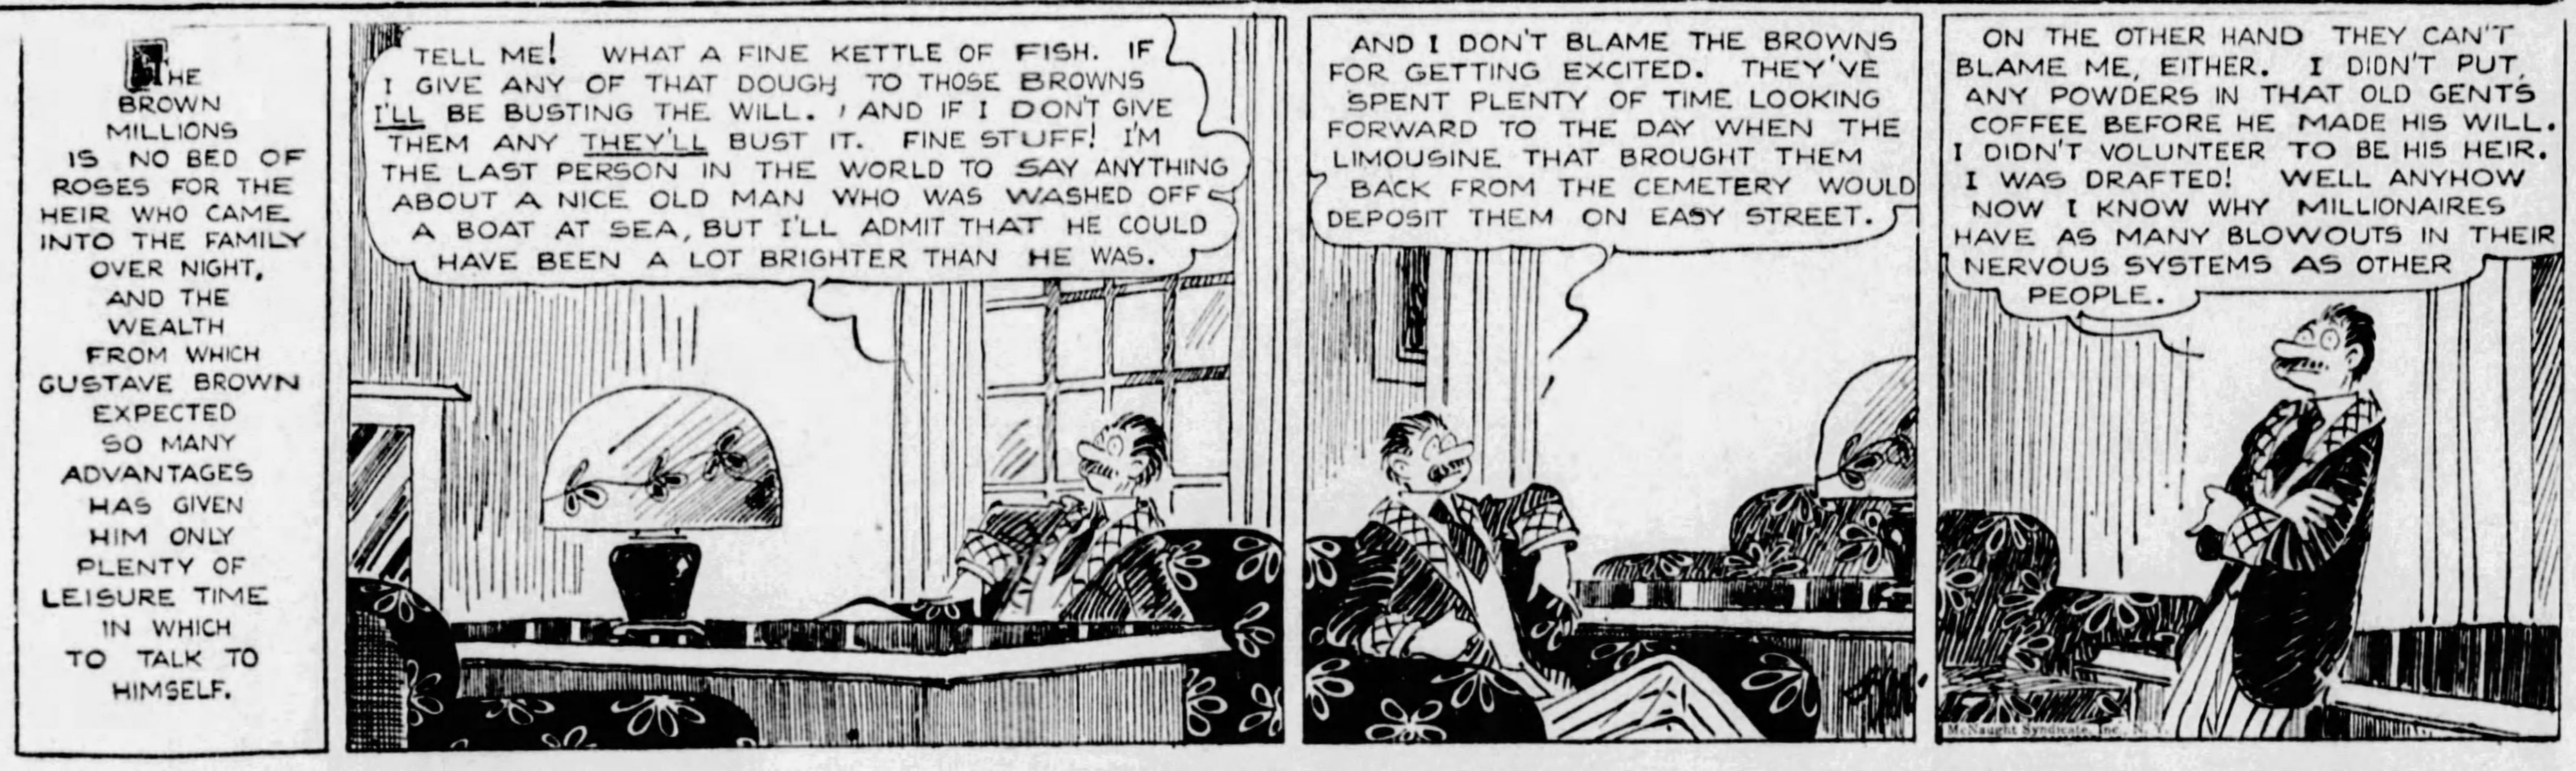
THE BUNGLE FAMILY - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - A Blue Brown



THE BROWN MILLIONS IS NO BED OF ROSES FOR THE HEIR WHO CAME INTO THE FAMILY OVER NIGHT, AND THE WEALTH FROM WHICH GUSTAVE BROWN EXPECTED SO MANY ADVANTAGES HAS GIVEN HIM ONLY PLENTY OF LEISURE TIME IN WHICH TO TALK TO HIMSELF.
TELL ME! WHAT A FINE KETTLE OF FISH. IF I GIVE ANY OF THAT DOUGH TO THOSE BROWNS I'LL BE BUSTING THE WILL. AND IF I DON'T GIVE THEM ANY THEY'LL BUST IT. FINE STUFF! I'M THE LAST PERSON IN THE WORLD TO SAY ANYTHING ABOUT A NICE OLD MAN WHO WAS WASHED OFF A BOAT AT SEA, BUT I'LL ADMIT THAT HE COULD HAVE BEEN A LOT BRIGHTER THAN HE WAS.
AND I DON'T BLAME THE BROWNS FOR GETTING EXCITED. THEY'VE SPENT PLENTY OF TIME LOOKING FORWARD TO THE DAY WHEN THE LIMOUSINE THAT BROUGHT THEM BACK FROM THE CEMETERY WOULD DEPOSIT THEM ON EASY STREET.
ON THE OTHER HAND THEY CAN'T BLAME ME, EITHER. I DIDN'T PUT ANY POWDERS IN THAT OLD GENT'S COFFEE BEFORE HE MADE HIS WILL. I DIDN'T VOLUNTEER TO BE HIS HEIR. I WAS DRAFTED! WELL ANYHOW NOW I KNOW WHY MILLIONAIRES HAVE AS MANY BLOWOUTS IN THEIR NERVOUS SYSTEMS AS OTHER PEOPLE.

I have six sweet little children who are too young to take out on gin parties, so my husband stays home with them. One night when I was slipping in at 3 a. m. with my shoes in my hand I stumbled, and not wanting my friend husband to know it was after 9 p. m., I made a noise like a cat. Imagine my embarrassment when my husband got up and absent-mindedly put me out and kissed the cat.

Last Word on Loan Said, But Vote Duty Remains

Nothing more can be said on the bond issue, except to point out to qualified voters the importance of voting. The speaking campaign conducted by the People's Bond Issue Association has given citizens opportunity to learn the details of the loan from persons of influence from all parts of the county.

The duty of voting alone remains and if you have not done so already be sure not to fail in that obligation to yourself and to your home before the closing of the polls at 8 o'clock tonight, daylight saving time.

Here's Chance to Learn About Voting Machine

Citizens now are given the opportunity of registering their opinion as to whom should be President—Hoover or Smith—and at the same time become familiar with the operation of the voting machine, permission for the use of which in regular elections they will vote on next November.

The Sun-Telegraph has installed six voting machines throughout the city, one of them in its downtown advertising office, Fifth avenue and Market street, on which voters may register their choice for President as well as designating for whom they voted at the last presidential election.

Straw votes are interesting and a most accurate way of guaging public opinion as well. So this is an opportunity of casting your "straw" in the most up-to-date manner.

The machines will be kept in operation for some time in order to give voters a chance to become familiar with this modern way of voting—a way that offers the most effective safeguard to the sanctity of the ballot. On November official ballots there will be a constitutional amendment permitting the use of voting machines. If the amendment is approved the way will be opened for legislation allowing localities that want machine-voting to make use of that method.

We could not use voting machines now even if the county wanted to buy them. The law provides for the present method. The amendment is not to make the voting machine compulsory, but to permit its use. When the machines come into Allegheny county, as they are certain to eventually, you will want to know all about them. Even to vote intelligently on the amendment you should know about them.

Now you have your big opportunity.

Senator Gooding's Death Misfortune in Inquiry

The death of Senator Frank R. Gooding, of Idaho, is deplored, especially in the Pittsburgh district, where local prominence was added to his national prestige through his association with the coal probe as chairman of the Senate sub-committee investigating all phases of the bituminous strike.

A wealthy man and employer of labor, himself, he revealed strong sympathetic leanings toward the strikers here and expressed his horror of conditions he witnessed while making an inspection here with other Senators.

What effect his death will have on the report of the strike to be made to the Senate can be only conjecture, but it is not likely that it will be very great, since the evidence remains unchanged. However, the passing of Senator Gooding may cause delay in reaching a conclusion by the committee, and that will be unfortunate.

Outside of his home district the blow of Senator Gooding's death will not be felt more than in Pittsburgh.

Rich Man, Poor Man

It's All Very Sad, BUT—

Edward C. Stokes, once Governor of New Jersey, says, "The poor man can't win a nomination without a political machine to help him." Generally speaking, that's true, especially if a RICH man happens to want the nomination. But a poor man MIGHT beat machines and money both, if by any chance he had done something to make the people KNOW him.

The sad trouble is that a great many men about whom the people know nothing in particular, can't understand why they are not elected.

A rich nobody, plus a machine, naturally beats a poor nobody without a machine. Lindbergh could be elected without machine or money. The people know him.

Live Forever

That's the Advice for Mussolini.

Mussolini, working to make Fascist government perpetual, will find it hard to make anything take the place of combined personality and will power.

An important editor, asking how his newspaper could be made a permanent institution, was told by a friend: "It's simple enough, live forever."

That is the answer to Mussolini. When HE goes, nobody knows what will happen. Meanwhile he plays a great world part and has carried Italy through dangerous years.

War brings lassitude, drifting, and weakens old ideals. Mussolini stopped all that, in Italy.

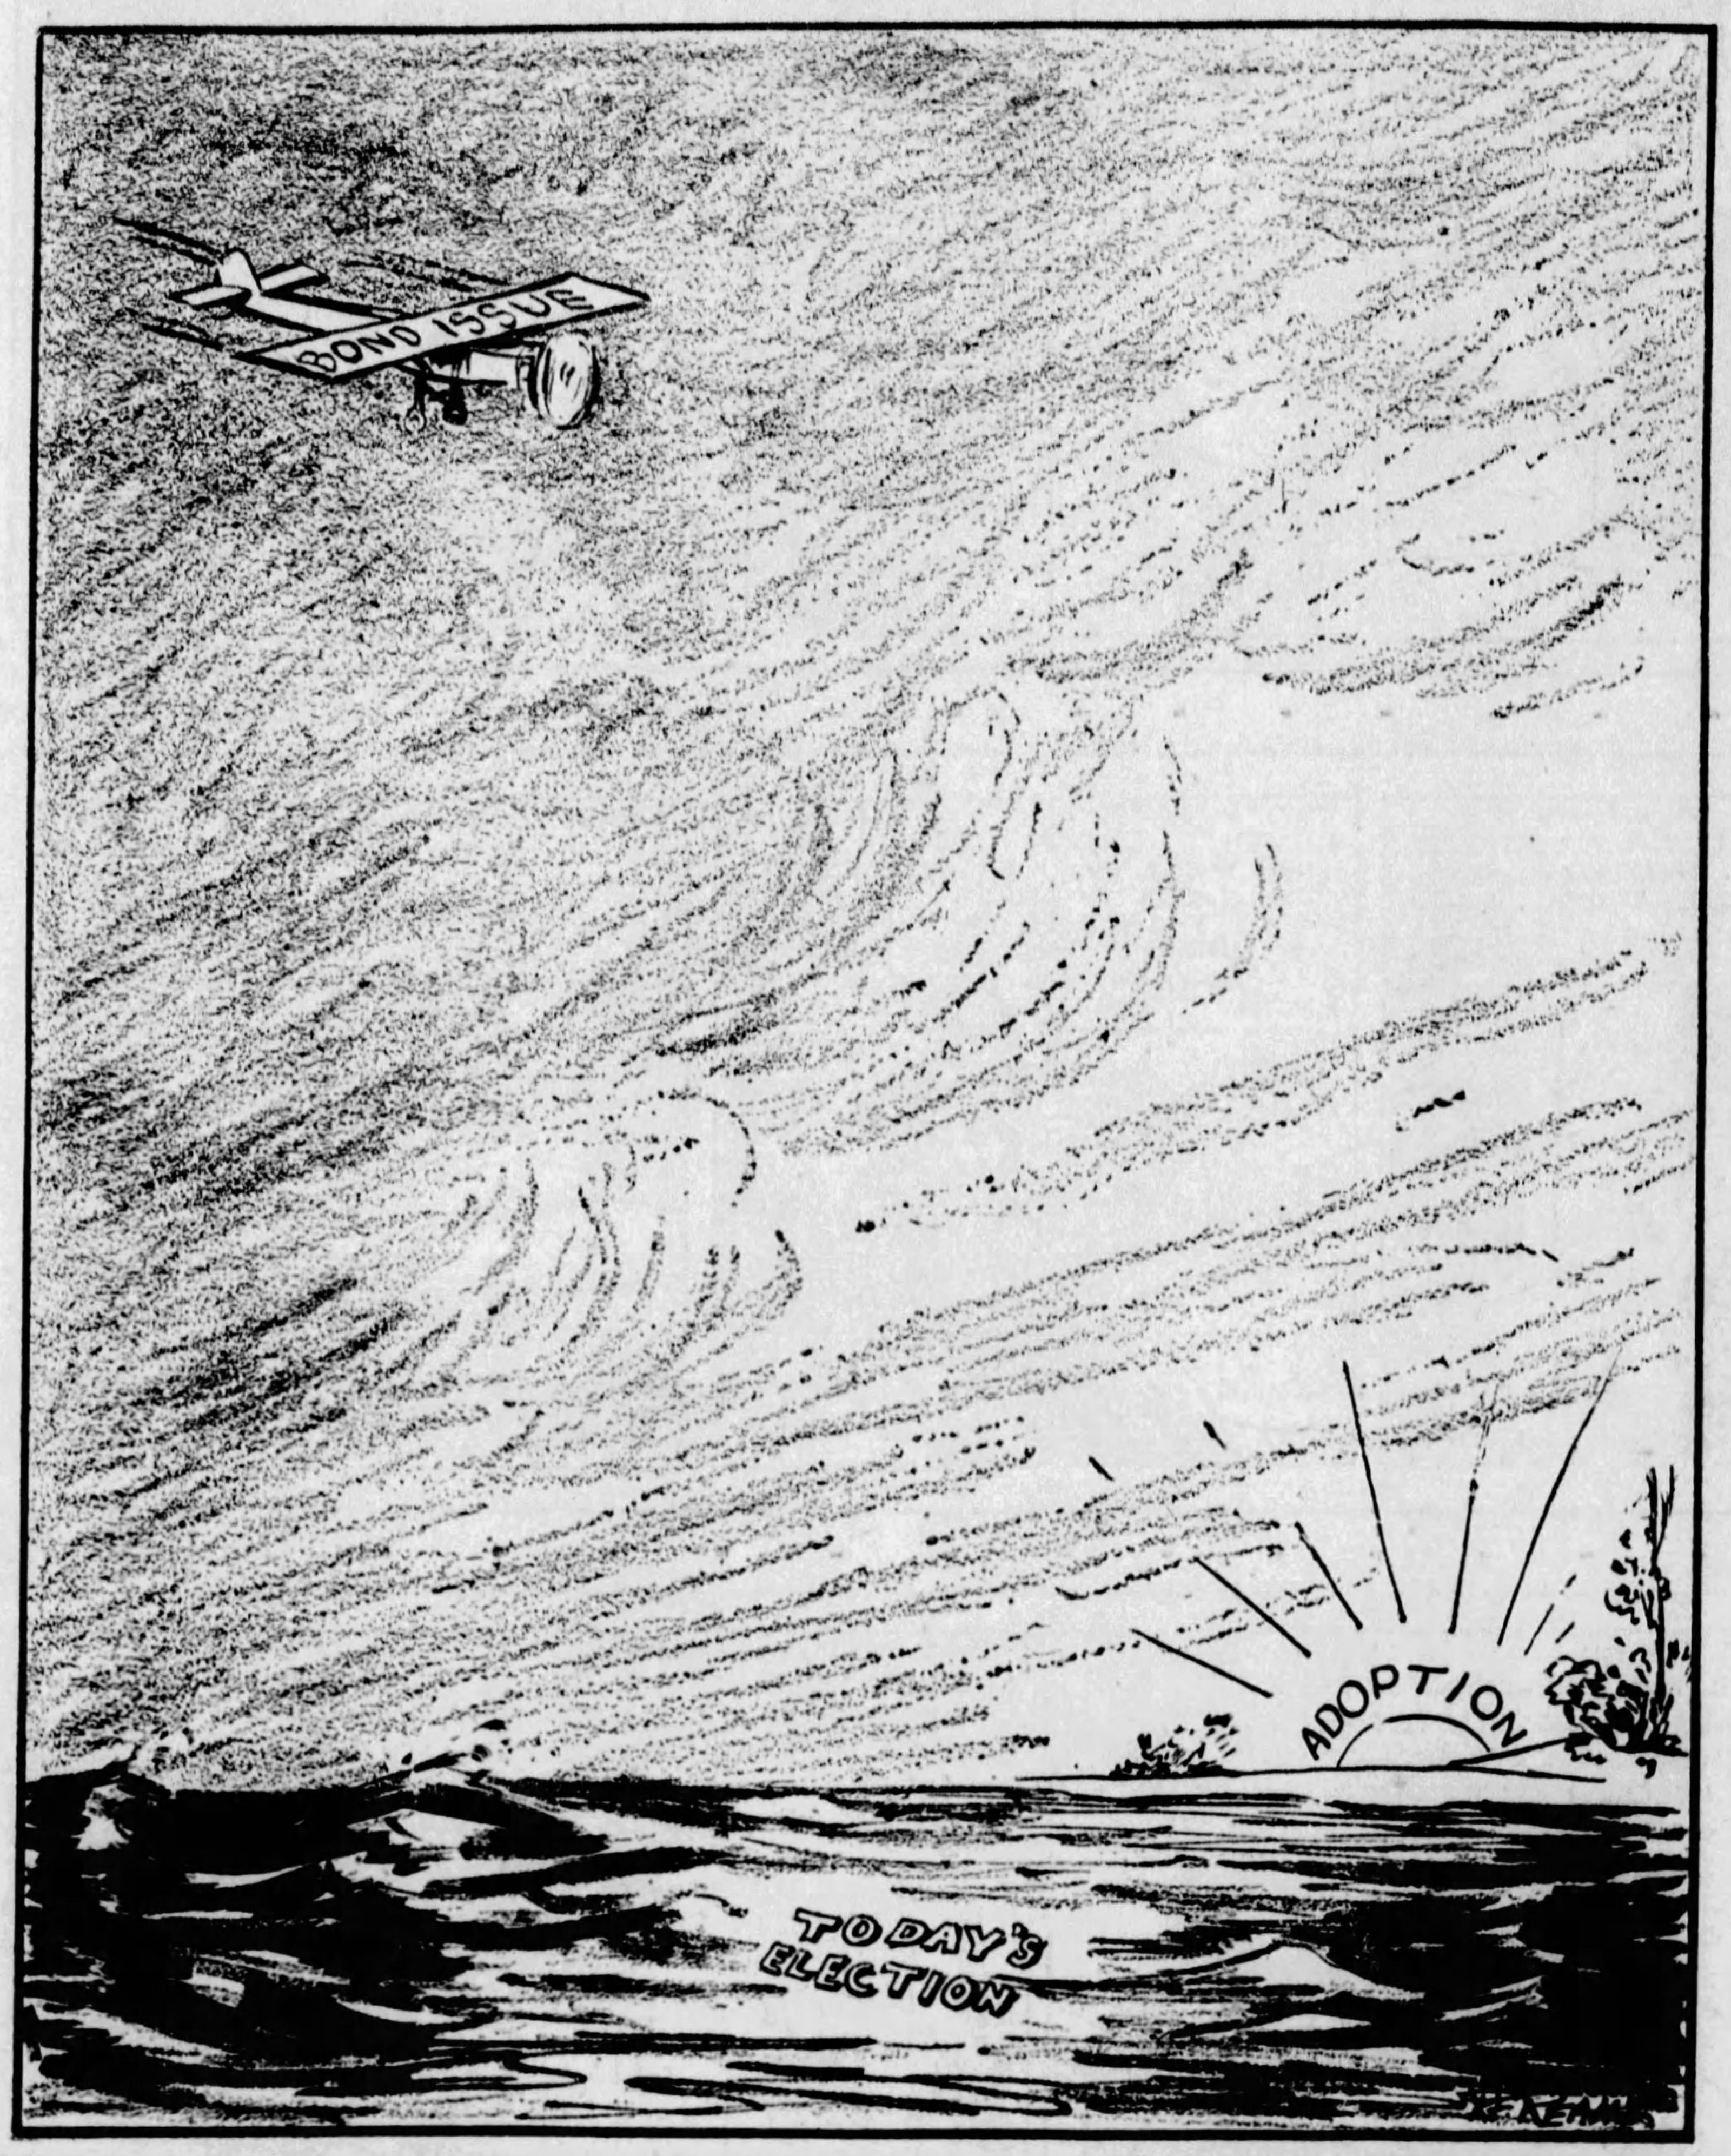
DAWN! AND LAND IN SIGHT!



New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

THE roadhouses around New York are suffering a trade slump similar to that which hit the night clubs. They offer the same brand of entertainment—jazz dancing, a few cabaret entertainers, and in most instances what you desire in a liquid way.

The isolation of many offered agreeable hide-aways for philandering husbands and wives. Fortunes were spent outfitting a few in an Urban-esque splendor. For several seasons they were heavily patronized. With few exceptions they are empty this summer.

The rise and fall of pleasure resorts in the metropolis presents a phenomenon. What is considered smart this season is for yokels only the next. For no apparent reason patrons will suddenly turn from a popular rendezvous and never return.

In my first years in New York the most popular night haunt in town was Healy's, Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue. After 1 o'clock the crowds were so thick you couldn't get in with a court order. Police reserves were called out at intervals to hold off revelers.

And for no reason at all, crowds went elsewhere. Bustanoby's on upper Broadway, locally famous as "The Domino Room," had the same spurt of popularity. Everybody motivated by the idea they were somebody would be found in its black and white splendor after midnight. It, too, went the way of Healy's.

What happened to hectic cafes was faced in a large measure by more sedate restaurants. Sherry's is almost alone among restaurants flourishing a decade ago to maintain its pristine smartness. The wisest among the restaurant owners have quit when they saw the handwriting on the wall.

Others who tried to steam the tide floundered eventually in bankruptcy. When New York is through with cafes it is through with a finality that cannot be overcome. No cafe has ever made a "come back."

The only optimists holding out against New York's changing tempo are the old-time cabmen. With their rigs at the curb, they still perch along the south wall of Central Park like so many moulting sparrows—chirping, quarreling and shaking themselves at intervals. Their coats and hats show the polychromatic rustiness of years and their "Kerridge, sir," is the thin voice of an impossible hope. They are the defeated undefeated.

Horse-drawn vehicles are hired chiefly by starry-eyed couples who want to clop-clop along in the silvery moonshine of Central Park or college cut-ups aching to do a few rodeo stunts on the avenue. The tragic side of the cabmen's fate is that many carry on out of sheer loyalty to their faithful horses.

* * *

The old-time cabbie was a pal to the stay out. He often salvaged him out of rough seas, drove him home and tucked him in bed, and was noted for his honesty. His friendships among the great were numerous. Every big financier of the nineties had his favorite cabman who ministered to him after business hours with the same solicitude of the present-day valet.

* * *

The uppish thing in valets seems to be the dusky natives of the Philippines. Most of them have been expertly trained by high Army officers and reflect the precision of military methods. They speak only when spoken to, hear nothing or see nothing, and never care for a night off.

A friend has one of those British importations in valets and all the ramrod dignity that goes with the calling. He is the "If I may be so bold, sir" type of the drawing room dramas and to one brought up to consider a "hired man" as a mark of affluence he seems a honey. Yet my friend finds him a terrible trial. In odd moments he sings hymns in falsetto.

* * *

Nothing is so annoying as a hymn hummer. I once boarded with a woman whose husband sat on the front porch until long after midnight indulging this habit in sonorous montone. I not only lay awake plotting how to break him of this habit, but also of any other little habits he might have—including breathing.

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Our Star

FROM the stern deck of a liner in mid-Atlantic, deserted because nearly all the passengers had hastened down to dinner, I had, in the latter part of May, a vision of our star which we call the sun that was a revelation, although I have studied the sun for years.

The great orb was nearing its setting. Huge, round clouds filled half the atmosphere, and from behind one of them spokes of sunlight projected like the golden spikes around the head of Jove. The edges of the cloud in places were agleam with intense light—a bordering of fire. The ship's course at the time was direct east, so that her long wake, stretching behind over an almost calm sea, lay like a parallel of latitude drawn upon the globe of the earth itself, while at the same time the gorgeous spectacle of the sun-fired cloud threw a path of light on the water which marked, like a great circle on the terrestrial sphere, the projected line of the ecliptic. This path of sunlight evidently met the east-and-west line made by the ship's wake at the same angle as that of the sun's northern declination at the date—about 20 degrees. It was as if an almighty finger had drawn these lines upon the smooth round of the sea to illustrate for celestial spectators the primary facts of astronomical geography.

The mental impression was overwhelmingly grand and fascinating. But, as I continued to gaze at the strange sight another impression, still more potent, obliterated the first. It was subjective in its origin. It arose in the mind, suggested but not produced by the spectacle of the sunburst from behind the cloud. The mere mensuration facts about the sun are familiar to all who possess the least knowledge of astronomy, such as that the sun is an incandescent body, 866,000 miles in diameter, situated at a mean distance of 93,000,000 miles from its little dependent, the earth, and that although it produces daylight on the earth while the stars produce only starlight, yet the majority of the stars are in reality greater—many of them thousands of times greater—light givers than the sun. They are dimmed by excess of distance.

These facts, I say, are well known to almost everybody, yet, although I have repeated them thousands of times in books and articles and lectures, it required the unexpected sight of the sun behind a cloud, seen from the deck of a ship in mid-ocean, to suddenly illuminate my consciousness with a full appreciation of their meaning. The relative nearness—almost startling nearness—of our star seemed suddenly to have proclaimed itself through the effect produced upon the intervening cloud. Because of the cutting off of the direct sunlight by the cloud-screen the source of that light seemed to have suddenly been brought close up to the back of the cloud, and there it burned with ineffable splendor. Only a little thick vapor in the atmosphere appeared to separate it from the earth. Those dazzling rays shooting every way from behind the cloud were intimidating, almost terrifying, in the sense that they imposed of irresistible power, insufferable brightness and electrifying nearness.

When at length, and slowly, the disk of the sun emerged from behind the cloud it seemed to my blinded eyes to have expanded to an incredible size. The sense of nearness was still in possession of my mind, so that I saw the orb subjectively and "our star" had become, for the moment, a monstrous circle of white fire that the imagination pictured as rushing upon the earth to consume it, as a conflagration licks up a bit of paper.

A standing puzzle of optics is the exaggeration of the apparent size of the sun and the moon when seen poised on the horizon. The phenomenon is explained as a subjective impression, and my experience with the cloud-hidden sun was of a like nature. But the realism was, for the moment, overwhelming.

Puzzling

NO: THE political warriors who are foretelling defeat if their man doesn't win will not be discredited when he loses.

The public's memory is short. These veterans are adept at shifting their position. It will be hats up and harmony all around when the balloting has ended.

But the 1928 convention will go down in history as the one in which the usually sanguine G. O. P. saw defeatist threats carried to a new extreme before the nomination.

The antiquarian may have difficulty in discovering why.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

A Friend in Need

DON'T avoid the friend in trouble because you fear he may ask a favor.

It is not only cowardice, so to do, but evidence that your friendship is false.

No matter what your friend's trouble, go to him.

Don't be patronizing or too fulsome in expression of sympathy.

But give him to understand that you will help to the extent of your ability.

Make it easy for him to accept your proffers.

Don't chastise him at such a time.

He has enough worry when he is in trouble.

Wait till he gets on his feet again before you start giving advice.

Don't try to get him to explain more than he wishes about his affairs.

He will tell you what he wants you to know.

But to quiz and probe a man in trouble is to increase his distress.

Above all things don't stay away from the friend in need of the thought that you will stand by him.

Often this is all a man needs to give him the incentive to go ahead and help himself.

And shouldn't you do this much for a friend?

For him who makes a gallant fight
Against the forces of the night.

The man who with undaunted zest
Brings forth his loftiest and his best
Against all error, wrong and sin,
Regardless of the odds, must win.

For he who freely shares with all
His gifts (though they be great or smhll)
Will find, though selfish gladness goes,
A deeper joy the days disclose.

And in his darkest hours he learns
How every kindly thought returns;
He plucks in times of sorest need
Sweet fruits of some forgotten deed.

ALL WILLING WORKERS—Gen. Coxey says we are in the hands of the bankers, brokers, bootleggers and burglars, who constitute an army that is never idle.

Man who complains that his wife called him "A yellow dog and a red-nosed shrimp" should feel complimented. Usually a husband is either one or the other, but seldom both.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE are some things a man has got to keep to himself. A fellow that's just got married this June will sometimes find out by the Fourth of July that he's likely to get into trouble if he follows out his resolutions of letting his wife in on everything.

One of these bridegrooms just here lately was trying to shave, and he says, "Mabel, I can't understand it. This here razor won't cut any more. It's just naturally gone wrong."

"Well," she says, "I think it must be you, George. You got such an awful tough beard, you know. Now that there razor was all right yesterday. It opened that there can of sardines slicker than anything I've ever used before."

A Hat Trick

HE WAS an amateur conjurer, and on a long railway journey offered to entertain the other passengers with a few tricks. He performed several good ones, but one fellow looked on and at intervals made remarks such as "Everybody knows that one!" "Think we didn't see where that went," and "Why, my 10-year-old son can do all those tricks."

The entertainer took little notice of him, but at length asked the grumbler for the loan of his hat, a new bowler. The man objected, but at last handed over the hat with very bad grace.

The conjurer borrowed a knife, sliced off the top, stamped on both portions, and said: "Now, that's the first part of this trick. The second is putting it together again, and anyone can do that. Say, mister"—turning towards the grumbler—"you tell your son to show you how it's done."

The Exposure

HE HAD poured fourth passionate declarations of love to the pretty girl at his side. He did not think he was capable of such eloquence. Yet in the midst of his loving words the girl yawned. Even though she raised her hand to conceal it, it did not escape his eager eye. His torrent of burning words ceased. The light of hope died in his eyes.

"Why speak to you of love?" he cried, hoarsely. "You are utterly heartless! Your yawn showed it!"

"Oh, Clarence," she whispered, horror-stricken, "did I open my mouth as wide as that?"

The Sticker

AN AUTHOR was present at a gathering of artists, and during the evening he rose to make a speech. "Gentlemen," he said, "as this is an assembly in which art is largely represented, I feel it incumbent upon me to say a few words regarding the subject of painting. Speaking personally, my only efforts in that direction were on an occasion when I enameled our bath. My friends said to me, 'My dear fellow, it's no good your going in for painting unless you'd prepared to stick to your work,' and," he added, "I did."

Both Right

ALTHOUGH Baxter and his wife had been married 30 years, it was said they had never been known to agree upon anything except once.

Baxter bought a car, and in due course learned to drive it—in a way.

When he took his wife for her first drive all went well until they came to a sharp corner. Baxter attempted to pull the car round.

"Billy!" screamed his wife, grasping his arm. "You're going to hit that pillar-box!"

"I am," said Baxter.

A second later he had.

Isn't It So?

Beyond Thinking

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

At this season of the year the same thing will take place in a thousand places at once.

A gentleman in a stiff collar and a long-tailed coat will speak to several attentive rows of more or less protuberant ears above black graduating gowns.

And in each case he will say essentially the same thing:

"Think! Come to your own conclusions! Do your own thinking!"

This is fine advice as far as it goes. But it is kitten advice. It hasn't grown up. For the real trouble in thinking comes beyond thinking.

As soon as you begin to think for yourself you begin to have new ideas.

And what to do with a new idea is the problem.

Nobody cares if you think for yourself. That doesn't bother the world any. It is the new idea that you arrive at that differs from the current ideas held at par that brings trouble on your head.

If your thinking ends in ideas out of tune with your time they are treated like a strange dog in a canine-infested neighborhood.

If the learned gentlemen in the long-tailed coats could offer some practical advice upon meeting the problems that come in the "beyond thinking" stage, they would be of great assistance.

They rarely do, for it is the sad fact that many of them belong to that cloistered class which views with alarm the approach of any new idea that contains the boisterousness of youth in its words.

The real liberty of a community or a country must be measured in terms of the security enjoyed by the minorities.

Where dissenters are squelched, progress stops.

We all recognize that fact for ideas with which we agree. But it is harder to see when the ideas advocated by a minority seem dangerous, perverted and wrong to our way of thinking.

No one has a monopoly upon truth and if everyone has the opportunity to try to convert others to his way of thinking, out of the conflict of ideas the right will emerge.

Freedom to preach any honest idea arrived at by individual thinking is an ideal worth working to attain.

One of the rarest things to find is hospitality of mind. I do not mean license of belief or laxity of principle. But I mean an entire willingness to hear all that may be said upon the other side.

After the Civil War there was great intolerance in the North. I remember when it came to me through meeting some good Southern people that a man could believe in the South's cause thoroughly and be just as honest as I was.

It is not so much the matter of your belief, but the manner of it.

One of the main rules for us to follow is to agree to nothing simply on authority. Let us be satisfied in our own minds. The best belief is worked out from personal experience. Perhaps that is what Tennyson meant when he said:

"There is more truth in honest doubt Believe me than in half the creeds."

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD.

MARY PICKFORD has joined the golf widows. Doug is forever rushing off to a game, says Mary, and how she misses him! But she is unlike most golf widows. She knows exactly how to handle the situation. Secretly she is taking lessons and before very long she is going to show Doug up on the links. Even if she is little, she is a wow on the links, so her teacher reports.

Did you know that the two best dispositions in the moving picture world belong to blondes? Mary Pickford and Marion Davies. They never quarrel with other women, they treat their servants so kindly that they never want to quit, and neither of them is ever too taken up with the spot light to pay attention to the small children who come their way, which after all is even better than being fine actresses.

I know a girl who never eats squab, "because," she says, "I've never been able to master them. They invariably sit up and fight back at me."

A Chicago banker heard the other day that a girl whose charm he first encountered in Greenwich Village, had been married and gone to live on the best boulevard after marrying into a social register family.

"My, my!" was his commen[illegible] "What a change that must be, afte[illegible] living in a piano box, with a li[illegible] stick and cigaret!"

Claire Page says: "Oh, you know the kind she is—she orders canned peaches in July and fresh strawberries at Christmas."

And everybody knew.

Springfield, Mass., gives men the glad tidings that unless they are drunkards, their wives cannot divorce them just because they happen to be bootleggers.

In other words, a woman can divorce a convicted criminal but not a happy, prosperous criminal, who isn't convicted.

It does begin to look as if no one considers that particular busi[illegible] a crime any more. What is [illegible] crime, is the sen sen they [illegible]t into it.

Lucky

TEX RICKARD says he will hire lawyers to contest the 25 per cent tax on prize fight tickets.

That will be agreeable news to the legal profession.

Were Tex truly appreciative of his benefits, he would be thanking his lucky stars that the prize ring was not padlocked.
